THE INCOME TAX AND GOVERNMENT BONDS.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Two important questions were settled in the House to-day. One related to the income tax and the other to taxing Government bonds. The latter was fixed at the rate of three per cent. with two thousand dollars exemption from income, and the inquisitorial features of the present law abolished. On a direct vote to abolish this tax altogether, there were but 56 votes in favor of it, and 126 against. The Western members in favor of its abolition were: Messrs. Axtill, Burr, Crebs, Dickinson, Fitch, Garfield, Johnson, Niblack, Sargent, Smith of Oregon, Stevenson, Trimble, and Upson. Some of the richest men in the House, like Morrill, of Pennsylvania, and Cooper, of Boston, voted to abolish it.

There was a long discussion on the question of taxing the coupons of Government bonds, as proposed by Mr. Beck, of Kentucky, five per cent., General Butler warmly favoring from the Republican and the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee opposing it as virtual repudiation. It was rejected by 78 to 110. The Western members who voted to tax the bonds were Adams, Beck, Benjamin, Burr, Cobb, Coburn, Crebs, Cullum, Dickinson, Dyer, Eldridge, Farnsworth, Fitch, Hawkins, Hay, Holman, Ingersol, Johnson, Kerr, Knott, Lewis, Logan, Marshall, McCormick, McNeely, Moore, of Illinois, Morgan, Orth, Rice, Sargent, Smith, of Oregon, Stokes, Strader, Sweeney, Trimble, Tyner, Wells, Wilson, of Minnesota, Wilson, of Ohio, and Winchester. Twenty-four Republicans were included in the whole number of affirmative votes.

THE TAX BILL.

The House has substantially finished the tax bill, and the amendments adopted increase the reduction of taxation to about $37,000,000. To-morrow Gen. Schenck will move his new tariff bill as an additional section, and an earnest contest is expected, for, notwithstanding that it proposes to still further reduce taxation through the tariff some twenty millions of dollars, it turns up to-day in a printed form, with the subjects of pig iron and Bessemer steel rails and cotton goods in it. Members of the Ways and Means were confident yesterday that these would not be included, but they have at the last moment been put in the very shape to produce agitation. Pig iron, for instance, is named at seven dollars a ton, being two dollars less than the present duty; while the duty on Bessemer steel rails is raised from twenty two to thirty-four dollars per ton. Some other less important articles have the rates changed from the recent bill under consideration. The free list, however, is the same.

A FUNDING BILL.

It is at last a fact that the Ways and Means Committee have agreed on a funding bill. It is a virtual substitute for the Senate bill, and will probably be reported to the House on Tuesday next. Members of the committee keep its details very secret, but it is definitely learned that the compulsory section of the Senate bill is omitted, and the banks are not compelled to make an exchange of bonds. The bond agreed on is a four per cent. gold bond. Secretary Boutwell, who knows pretty well what the committee have done, does not approve of the leading feature of the new bill. He is not without hope, however, that out of the disagreement of the two houses on this measure he will yet get from a conference committee a bill that will be acceptable to him. Members say this is doubtful.

GEORGIA.

The House Reconstruction Committee, by eight to seven, have agreed to so amend the Georgia bill as to require the election of a new State Legislature the coming fall. This is even stronger than the Bingham amendment.

TREASURER SPINNER

is out in still another letter on the National banks and the funding of the debt, in which he says that the question now really is, shall the banks be permitted to have their own circulating notes, secured by United States stock bringing a low rate of interest, or shall the Government issue its own notes and have as funds the three hundred millions of dollars now issued to the banks, thereby saving the interest, which, at even four per cent., would amount to twelve millions of dollars per annum? Persons who know of what they assert, he says, are confident that a four per cent. bond for a thousand million can be placed in Europe. Is it supposed, he inquires, that under such circumstances the people will consent that the banks shall continue to receive 6 per cent. on their United States bonds and receive interest on the loans made by them of the notes furnished them on their bonds deposited here? Besides, is there not great danger that the answer of the people would be, "let the banks withdraw their stocks by a deposit of the money wherewith to redeem their circulating notes, and let the Government issue three hundred million dollars of its own notes instead," and save thereby to the people eighteen million dollars of taxation annually?

RECONSTRUCTION.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The Reconstruction Committee last night heard Messrs. Maynard and Stokes at great length, and concluded the Tennessee investigation. Some Congressional action may be recommended at the next meeting. The amnesty question was not considered.

NEW TWO CENT REVENUE STAMPS.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has approved a design for a new two cent stamp for bank checks.

TAX ON RAILROAD SCRIP.

There is no truth in the report that the Commissioner has decided that the special tax must be paid on New York Central and Hudson scrip. The matter is still under consideration by the Supervisor Court of New York.

THE INDIAN DELEGATIONS.

The two Sioux delegations met at the Indian office to-day with Commissioner Parker and Secretary Cox. Addresses were made by both gentlemen expressive of gratification at meeting the Indians, the latter asking them to detail their condition that a perfect understanding may be reached and a peace made that will last forever. Red Cloud said a few words in reply, in which he said he wanted rations for his women and children, and a load of ammunition to kill game with. Secretary Cox promised a careful consideration of the request. The Indians are to see the President on Monday. Red Cloud declines to have his photograph taken.

BANKING AND CURRENCY.

The Committee on Banking and Currency are not inclined to the adoption of the bill presented to them to-day from the National Free Banking Association of New York, proposing the funding of the public debt and establishing a uniform gold and paper currency.

THE DOMINION.

Riel to Give Battle to the Red River Expedition.

TORONTO, June 3.—A dispatch from St. Cloud says Riel is dissatisfied with the Manitoba bill because it does not provide for general amnesty, and intends to resist the Red River expedition. He has 300 men at Fort Garry and 800 on the prairie. A battle is expected near Lake of Woods. Riel is said to be robbing the mails to procure funds previous to leaving for the United States.

In consequence, orders have been issued to double the guards at all the dock yards and naval stations in Great Britain; to keep fires banked in on all steamers, and other precautions calculated to facilitate the suppression of any revolt.

The Oaks race, which was sharply contested at Epsom to-day, was won by Gamos, Sunshine second and Pate third. Only six started.

FRANCE.

PARIS, June 3.—Several prisoners charged with complicity in the conspiracy plot, were yesterday brought up for preliminary examination in the High Court. The court also investigated the papers found on the persons of some of the prisoners. Many of these were adjudged to have no connection whatever with the conspiracy. While some of the prisoners were held for trial several were unconditionally released.

CHICAGO.

Killed by Carelessness—Murder—The Indian Country—General Hancock's Talk with the Redskins.

CHICAGO, June 3.—While Louis Coly and Louis Rush were, this morning, working on a staging on Farwell Hall building at an elevation of some fifty feet from the sidewalk, the staging, consisting merely of a ladder with boards laid lengthwise and suspended from the roof, gave way, and Coly was precipitated to the sidewalk, killing him instantly. Rush seized a rope, sprang into a window and saved himself. The testimony at the inquest showed that Rush had been careless in fastening the rope, and he was censured.

Henry Croll was murdered by some unknown ruffian at Pekin, Ill., on Thursday. The murderer robbed him of $105.

The following dispatch was received this morning at military headquarters:

Sioux City, June 2—To Asst. Adjutant General, Headquarters Military Division of Missouri: I have just returned to this point. I went to Cheyenne agency, above Fort Sully, and had a conversation with the Indians there. Troops have been placed at Old and Opca, Whetstone, Crow creek, Cheyenne, and Grant river agencies. I have visited all except the latter. General Stanly was there a few days since, and everything was quiet. I have ordered two companies to the lower Brule agency, eighteen miles below Crow creek agency, on the application of the agent, who informed me that he would not continue his business operations unless troops be placed there.

Everything seems quiet, but the future is considered uncertain along the river. At Cheyenne, Major Randall's agency, the only place where I talked with the Indians, I observed that they made no promises for the future, and some of the Indians there, as well as at other agencies, complained of troops being placed on their reservations. They understand, however, why it was done, and seem to admit the justice of it.

My impression is that we shall have no trouble with the Indians on the Missouri river of any general nature if the Government continues the policy of feeding them; otherwise I have no doubt there will be serious trouble. They will be more likely to make trouble elsewhere, however, as they can only trade on the Missouri. The policy of sending for representative men of refractory Indians clearly would have a good effect, and would generally break down their influence with the Indians. I request authority to advertise a reward of $500 or $1,000, say in horses, for the murderers of a family on Ulobrara river. I believe we may thus capture them, or at least produce the effect of deterring others from committing like outrages for fear of being arrested through similar rewards. I leave by the first train for St Paul.

Maj. Gen. U. S. A.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

The United General Assembly.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—In the Presbyterian General Assembly, this morning, the report of the committee on proposed changes in the Board of Trustees of the corporate General Assembly reported that the six trustees elected in November last should be removed, and that six from the former New-School branch be substituted. This was agreed to, and six gentlemen were elected.

The Mileage Committee reported there was a deficiency in that fund of $395, which, however, is $1,300 less than last year. Resolutions were adopted fixing the rate at six cents per capita for the ensuing year, and stating that payments will be required in full in all cases.

The enabling act was considered and passed, with an amendment.

The consideration of the report on freedmen was resumed. A separate Provisional Freedmen's Board of twelve members was constituted, to be located at Pittsburg. Resolutions providing for the consideration of the Board of Publication's and Publication Committee's reports were discussed at length. Pending action, the Assembly adjourned.

Walloping a Representative.

[From the Richmond Whig, May 31.]

Yesterday afternoon, between 6 and 7 o'clock, Charles H. Porter, the Radical Representative of this district in Congress, became involved in a difficulty with Detective Pat. Woods, near the corner of Eighth and Broad streets, in the course of which the M. C. was severely handled by the detective. We learn that the difficulty originated in a degree of familiarity on the part of Porter toward the officer which the latter did not approve of. The melee attracted a large crowd which was with difficulty dispersed by Major Poe. Many in the crowd were negroes, who seemed to be inclined to side with their Radical leader, and were loth to leave when ordered. Officer Woods was promptly suspended by the Chief until an investigation can be had before the Mayor, by whose order he was arrested.

FISK'S LAST.

NEW YORK, June 3.—James Fisk has a new sensation in prospect. In a few days he will turn out with a new six-in-hand; this six-in-hand is expected to be the most costly of the sort that ever put in an appearance on the drives in and about this city. For nearly a month Waldron has been engaged in designing and manufacturing the mountings for the harness which the animals belonging to the six-in-hand are to wear. The hooks, tents, harness and buckles are all gold; so are also the drops, face pieces and pads. The hames will cost $3,000, the mountings $1,000, while the whole equipage, including horses and carriage, will cost $35,000. Over one hundred and fifty monograms will appear on the harness. The mountings for this splendid turnout are the finest ever made in this country.

KITCHEN NEWS.

An absurd and scandalous rumor about Queen Victoria is circulating among the English ale-houses in this city to-night. It is to the effect that a cable dispatch had been received by the British authorities here that the Queen had eloped with her well-known body servant, John Brown, and had probably taken passage in a sailing vessel for New York. There is nothing in the story, of course.

A NEW PARTY.

The first meeting of what may prove to be a new party organization was held to-night. It is said that well known citizens who are dissatisfied with the old parties are at the bottom of it. The planks are:

1. A civil service system.
2. Minority, or rather proportions', representation reform.
3. A revenue tariff.
4. Return to specie payments.
5. The purchase of the railroads by the central Government.

This last plan is urged upon the ground that either the railroad companies will run the Government or the Government must run the railroads, and that the last is the least of the two evils. An address to the nation will be issued soon.

COL. BLANTON DUNCAN

in the winter of 1868 was arrested here by William E. Hoy, of Hoy, Kennedy & Co., gas-pipe manufacturers, on the allegation of having made misrepresentations to them and inducing them to credit other parties to the amount of over $16,000. He gave bail, and moved to vacate the order of arrest. Chief Justice Barber delivered an opinion on Wednesday, vacating the arrest with costs, and completely vindicating Col. Duncan from any imputation of fraud, and asserting that there was not the slightest justification for the arrest, and not a shadow of evidence to to sustain the charge of fraudulent representation.

OUR OWN MARKET REPORT.

Specially Telegraphed to the Courier-Journal.

MONETARY.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Money was easy to-day. Governments were strong and advanced, while gold was dull and steady early in the day, but stronger at the close.

The stock market was strong and advanced, owing to the purchases of influential buyers. The bull movement, which was temporarily arrested by reports in regard to the action of Congress and financial bills, has now resumed its strong upward movement.

PARADE OF THE STATE MILITIA.

NEW YORK, June 3.—A brigade of the National Guard, New York State militia, consisting of the 78th, 79th, Colonel Fisk's, 37th and 55th regiments paraded at the Prospect Park parade ground yesterday, and afterward marched through the streets of Brooklyn and New York, exciting general attention and commendation.

RAILROAD VICTIMS.

The sufferers by the dreadful railroad calamity of Tuesday, at Paterson, N. J., remain in about the same condition as on Wednesday night. Those who have families have been removed to their own homes. Horung and Blakeney are almost momentarily expected to die from their injuries.

EMIGRANTS.

There were no steamers discharging passengers at Castle Garden yesterday, except the France, which was reported on Wednesday. There have been 10,531 emigrants landed at the depot within the past four days—a number almost unprecedented in the annals of the depot. On Wednesday the baggage of 1,029 passengers was weighed and checked. There are 700 Scandinavians on the France, and this class of emigrants has become quite numerous.

THE LOTTERY DEALERS.

Commissioner Delano has decided that the managers of lotteries are liable to a tax of 5 per cent. on sales of tickets and policies to dealers, who have not paid their special tax, and for whom bonds have not been given. He also decides that dealers are the agents of the managers. Among the lottery dealers arrested yesterday, on a charge of doing business without a license, were Alderman Chas. McBrien, Wm. Parson, David Linda, John McIntire, and Richard Marshall. The accused were held to bail before Commissioner Shields. It appears to be the determination of the Government officers to kill the trade, by arresting all on whom they can lay their hands.

PERSONAL.

Horace Greeley, with his wife and two daughters, arrived on the Columbia from Nassau to-day.

FAILED.

Gorham, Gray & Co., brokers of this city and Boston, failed to-day.

Judge Blatchford granted an order transferring three of the Jumel will suits from the Federal to the State courts.

THE O'MAHONEY FENIAN FUND.

Judge McCunn to-day allowed Thomas J. Barr, receiver of the O'Mahoney Fenian fund, $2,500 compensation, with an equal amount for his counsel, the whole to come out of the fund, originally $20,000.

REPORT ON CUBAN AFFAIRS.

The Herald publishes the forthcoming report of the House Foreign Affairs Committee on Cuba, of which the following is a synopsis: The report opens by referring to all the numerous petitions in behalf of Cuba, signed by nearly 15,000 people of the United States, and then, after a recapitulation of the early stages of the struggle, the delusive promises of Spain to speedily crush the rebellion, and the immense effort made by Spaniards and volunteers, continues as follows:

The Cubans had at Yara Oct. 11th, 1868, 147 men, 4,000 the 12th of October, 9,700 in November, and 12,000 in December. They have now 20,000 well armed men. There are 60,000 enrolled and drilled, but without arms; and they claim that, with a supply of arms, they can put into the field 200,000 fighting men—citizens, farmers, and emancipated blacks. The men of the country fighting for its liberty have not forgotten the objects for which they were organized. From the declaration of Cuban independence at Yara to this hour there has not been a week, scarcely a day, which has not been marked in the calendar of war by fierce, bloody contests. No revolution presents a more constant and determined struggle.

Although the Cubans were undisciplined and unaccustomed to the use of arms, of which in the beginning they had few or none, and their enemy was composed of the best troops of the army and navy of Spain, whose places in the military posts of the Island had been supplied by resident Spaniards, organized as volunteers, the Cubans nevertheless have been ready to meet their foes in skirmish combat or battle, and have shown themselves as brave in attack as in defense. A record of Nearly all the raids, skirmishes, combats and battles occurring from the 11th of October to the defeat of Puello and Goyenche, which terminated the campaign of December, 1869, and January 20th, give an honorable distinction to the struggle of the Cubans for independence that would in no wise discredit a people long accustomed to self-government, and trained to the use of arms. It is unnecessary for the purposes we have in view to speculate upon the advantages gained by Spaniards or Cubans in these constantly repeated hostile encounters. The record is presented as indisputable proof of the long-tinued existence of civil war in Cuba; but we recall incidents of the campaign of the past winter, in which, after exhaustive preparations by the Spanish Government, a most confident assurance of the speedy termination of the war, her best generals, Puerto and Goyenche, in a concentrated campaign under Valmaseda, were both defeated, the former with a loss of 1,300 out of 2,700 men.

As evidence of the spirit and capacity of the Cubans for successful war, the report details at length official information, as to events in Cuba, received by our own Government as well as Spain, and continues: The immediate proximity of Cuba to the United States gives to these grave events an importance which cannot be fully appreciated by another State, European or American. Cubans appeal to our people for sympathy and support in their unequal struggles for liberty. The Cuban question becomes, therefore, an American question, and the Government of the United States is constantly compelled to interfere in behalf of its citizens against the unjust decrees of the authorities and people of Spain, and for the protection of the lives of innocent and unoffending Americans, as well as to justify, by agreement, the almost universal sympathy which is felt and, in part, expressed by the American people in the cause of liberty in Cuba.

Various acts of aggression upon our commerce by Spanish cruisers are narrated, down to the case of the Lloyd at Aspinwall, for which no reparation has been made. In answer to the demands of our Government, harsh and cruel decrees, issued by the government of Spain during the war, are sufficient to state the character of the struggle, and direct the interest which the people of the United States, at home and abroad, have in the grave issues to be decided in Cuba.

Notwithstanding the constant protests of our government, these decrees stand substantially as they were issued, and are executed not according to the instructions of the government of Madrid, but in the ferocious spirit of the Catalonian volunteers, without regard to the conclusions to which the Spanish and American governments may arrive. The American Consul General at Havana recently received from British naval officers assurance of their protection and the offer of a file of marines to protect them, and, whenever it became necessary, to seek his safety on board a British man-of-war. And still later the American Vice Consul at Santiago de Cuba was called to account for dispatches sent to this Government and published by order of Congress by the unauthorized and irresponsible volunteers who govern Cuba, and, under the advice of the Spanish Governor, who was unable to protect him, he sought safety from personal violence by taking refuge on board a French frigate, under the protection of French naval officers.

The Spanish volunteers, the authors of the atrocities of the war, who thus appear to be masters of the island, number 40,000 men. The Spanish troops are inferior in numbers, and generally fraternize with them. The volunteers are supported in their policy by the national clubs and committees, representing Spaniards of wealth and influence, and to these it is now proposed to add the Volunteer Reserve Corps, composed of persons not hitherto enrolled in military organizations. Holding the balance of power, this force is absolute in Cuba.

The policy of the Government at Madrid must conform to its views. If the volunteers strike for independence the authority of Spain is destroyed. They compelled the resignation of Captain-General Dulce, because he was too lenient in the conduct of the war; they boldly threaten the removal of General De Rodas if he fail to satisfy their demands; they secured the promotion of Valmaseda at the very moment when our Government was receiving assurances from Spain that the cruelty to which he owed his advancement should be suppressed; they disregard all laws and all authority which is not in accordance with their sanguinary principles and purposes. Few or none are natives of Cuba. They swarm from every part of Spain in search of wealth. None remain inland. They plunder to live among the people they have wronged. Small fortunes generally satisfy their desires; but they often accumulate great wealth, according to their aspirations and capacity. They are unaccompanied by families and unrestrained by social ties, and represent the most desperate classes of Spain.

Our Consular officers in Cuba are commercial agents only, without diplomatic powers or authority, and cannot of right insist upon the recognition of political interest in the government of the island. Our diplomatic relations are with Spain, not with Cuba. Our inquiries and protests must be communicated to Madrid, reported to Cuba, returned to Spain and transmitted again to the United States, a circuit of many thousand miles, wasting months of time before either party can apprehend or comprehend the views of the other, and the circuit is to be repeated.

How long are we required to shut our eyes to facts which are patent to all the world and endure indignities never before practiced on any nation? Such grave events, covering a period of eighteen months, show an established condition of affairs injuriously affecting in every way the rights, the interests and honor of the American Government. It is unnecessary to assume that this disregard of authority and decency is in accordance with the wishes of the present Government of Spain, or that it makes profession of regard for the rights of the United States at Madrid which it does not intend to observe in Cuba. On the contrary the character of the military force in Cuba, the official declaration of officers of the United States and of Spain, and the record of current events from the beginning of the war prove conclusively that the Government of Spain in Cuba is unable to conquer the people of Cuba, to suppress rebellion, to inforce its authority, to secure the observance of its orders among the Spaniards, even to support its own officers, to protect the rights of foreign nations, or to punish crimes which the civilized world must condemn. It is no longer a civil commotion, as it has hitherto been regarded by the United States, nor a domestic question, as it is represented by the Spanish Government. It is a protracted and atrocious civil war. Our first duty is to treat it as a war, and in accordance with the laws of nations, to declare and maintain, in regard to parties engaged therein, a strict neutrality.

The foregoing is but a brief synopsis of the report, but embraces all its salient points. It appears that it was completed last April and adopted by a majority of the committee, after which the accompanying resolution was presented to the House, a day fixed for its consideration, but that day has long since gone by, and Gen. Banks had made but feeble efforts to have the resolution again before the attention of the House for final action. The report makes no recommendation regarding the murdered Americans, although it denounces in strong terms the cruelty and cowardice which caused the death of Wythe and Speakman.

Messrs. Voorhees and Logan will, it is believed, be prepared with a resolution additional to that reported by Mr. Banks, authorizing and instructing the Executive to demand prompt indemnity from the Spanish Government.

B. Gratz Brown (Otherwise Benjamin G. Brown), or J. Milton Turner, for Governor of Missouri.

[From the St. Louis Republican.]

Ex-Senator B. Gratz Brown is the prospective Radical candidate for Governor, or one of them, at least. The publication of his decoration-day address at Jefferson City in the Democrat, accompanied by an editorial eulogy on the orator and the oration, is a hint of the broadest nature. Mr. Brown declares himself emphatically in favor of removing the disfranchisements from white men which he aided to impose in 1865. He denounces these disfranchisements as "slaveries implying a moral degradation, setting apart a large body of your people with a never-to-be-effaced brand on their names, stigmatizing them as the forlorn and outcast." It is somewhat amusing to reflect that the ex-Senator voted for and urged his party to vote for the abominations he thus vigorously pictures.

There are at least a score of Radical candidates for the place aspired to by Mr. Brown, but he is evidently selected as the pilot of the "new departure," the leader who is to conduct all who will follow him into new fields of pillage. He has a good deal to say in a cometic way about a "morality above purchase, interpenetrated with a divine sense of trust, justice, and love," but we know what all that means. The birth of the Radical party was accompanied by just such charming and delusive nonsense; and even the nomination of Sasisky in 1868 was proclaimed a "reform" movement. The formal presentation of Mr. Brown will sharpen certain incoherent issues in the Radical party in this State. He is the first Radical candidate for Governor in the field, after J. Milton Turner, colored, who preceded him by a month. Others must follow rapidly and define their positions with equal clearness.

Another Sort of Red Man.

The following is going the newspaper rounds. We don't know who tells it: "A friend of ours, who took a trip to California, said he was not afraid of the Indians because he belonged to the benevolent Order of Red Men, and knew all the passwords and winks, and the figurative language and things, and no savage was going to touch him, initiated and fixed up in regalia as he was. He hadn't gone more than a hundred miles from Omaha before a band of Indians came at him and scooped him up. He took the chief aside and whispered the password in his ear, and gave him the grip twenty-six times on both hands, and made some observations about 'fifth moons' and 'happy hunting grounds.' The chief replied in a fraternal manner by tomahawking him and jabbing his butcher knife into his vitals. Our friend remarked that these ceremonies were not observed in his lodge; but the chief wanted to show him all the peculiarities of the Western system, so he scalped him and chopped off his nose, and was about to build a bonfire on his stomach, when some soldiers arrived and rescued him. He is now the bald-headedest Red Man this side of the Pacific ocean, and you never saw a person so disgusted with secret societies and Indian poetry. He is going to sue his lodge for passing a counterfeit grip on him, and for damage done by loss of his hair."

☞ Mr. Andrew Schott, of Eagle, Mich., last week plowed up a pocket-book that he lost five years since, containing $120. The contents in greenbacks, though badly damaged, were readily decipherable, and the owner will find no difficulty in redeeming them.

THE COURTS.

LOUISVILLE CITY COURT.

HON. E. S. CRAIG, JUDGE.

FRIDAY, June 3.

Silence being commanded, the court proceeded to impose a $5 fine upon John O'Briant, J. J. Sullivan, George Young, Mike McGuire, Geo. Blanchard, "nig," Arch. Brown, John Ward and Jas. Nolan, who, under the influence of a large amount of "blue ruin," fell by the wayside.

Lewis Buche, firing a pistol; continued.

Johanna Burke against Mrs. Farrel, and vice versa, a peace warrant. These ladies are natives of old Erin, and as one is a "Fenian" and the other an "Orangeman," living in the same house, it is impossible for them to get along together. Judge Craig referred the matter to the grand jury.

L. Noble was held in $100 bonds to answer an assault on a much larger man.

B. N. Whiston, charged with abusing his family and specially maltreating his wife; held in $100 bonds to answer.

Jane Hall, peace warrant, discharged; and after Sallie Riley, Ed. Cowell, John Wicklaw and James Broaderick were discharged for drunkenness.

Mrs. Bardsley was adjudged a lunatic.

The court then adjourned until 8 o'clock this morning.

LOUISVILLE CHANCERY COURT.

HON. T. B. COCHRAN, CHANCELLOR.

A Suit to Recover Hire for Slaves—A Bankrupt is not Discharged from Debts of a Fiduciary Character.

Mary V. Powell vs. Ben. W. Powell. This suit was brought for the recovery of $4,500 in money and the hire of two negroes willed to the plaintiff by her uncle, and placed in the hands of her father, the defendant, as trustee under the will. The defendant does not deny that he got the money, nor that the negroes and their hire came into h's hands.

The petition states that the defendant took possession of the $4,500 on the 23d day of May, 1854, and judgment was asked for that amount, with interest from that date.

The defendant also took possession of the negroes on the same date, and that the hire of Clara was worth $100 and that of Lizzy $50 per year until the passage of the act abolishing slavery was officially proclaimed, December 18, 1865. The plaintiff therefore asks for judgment for the hire of the slaves from May 23, 1854, to December 18, 1865, with interest from the end of each year consecutively—the whole amounting to $2,046 60, with interest from 1865.

The defendant was allowed to file his discharge in bankruptcy; but the plaintiff argued that under the bankrupt act the defendant was not discharged from the debt sued on; that the 33d section of the act provides that a discharge in bankruptcy does not release the bankrupt from debts of a fiduciary character.

The court decreed that the defendant's discharge in bankruptcy does not release him from the liability sued on.

Judgment for the plaintiff.

Divorce Granted.

Rosina Stegg vs. Charles Stegg. The plaintiff was granted a divorce and the custody of her child, on the ground of abondonment by the defendant.

FROM NASHVILLE TO CHICAGO.

TERRE HAUTE, June 3.—The first annual report of Josephus Collett, Jr., President of the Evansville, Terre Haute and Chicago railroad, a new line from this city to Danville, Illinois, will be published to-morrow. The following paragraph is of general interest:

"The directors believe that our road will be completed to its northern terminus by January 1, 1871. The gap, now only 35 miles, in the Evansville, Henderson and Nashville railroad will be closed during the month of September next. The Chicago and Danville railroad is reported to be making fair progress, and its managers promise its completion to Danville by the close of the present year, thus making, with our road and the Evansville and Crawfordsville railroad, a great through route from Nashville to Chicago."

NEW YORK CENTRAL AND HUDSON RIVER.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The New York Central and Hudson river directors to-day re-elected Cornelius Vanderbilt President and Wm. H. Vanderbilt Vice President. The only change in the directors is the substitution of James M. Marvin for Daniel Torrance, lately resigned.

Why Is It?

[To the Editor of the Courier-Journal.]

Why is it that within the last few weeks all ordinances except the general law concerning gambling and gaming have been so strictly enforced? Why is it that the police night after night walk by and pay no heed to "keno" players, although they make noise enough in "pegging and calling their cards" to be heard in the middle of the street? Why is it that the Fourth-street retail merchant, who pays annually a large tax into the city treasury, is compelled to pull down a little awning, and the Fifth-street gamblers are allowed to block the sidewalk, seeking whomsoever they may lead into their dens. The Mayor of this city, and the Chief of Police and all his assistants, together with every Councilman and Alderman, knows that Fifth street from Jefferson to Main is as one faro-bank, and if they don't stop them, who in the name of God will? Either put a check to this business or give them license.

FIRE-PROOF OIL,
BEST LAMP OIL IN THE WORLD.

We are having wonderful success with our Kentucky petroleum, and are making from it a better lamp oil than any coal oil in market. Refiners who deny this are offered the following

CHALLENGE:

Our proposition is open to Mr. Chas. Pratt, of New York; to Mr. Downer, of Boston, and to every other manufacturer of extra coal oil in the United States. We will make 1,000 cans of "Fire-proof," water-white oil, from Kentucky crude, and will put the same against 1,000 cans of water-white oil made from any other crude oil and by any other manufacturer in this country; and he whose oil stands highest test of fire, before competent judges previously agreed upon, shall become owner of the whole 2,000 cans.

The truth is, Kentucky petroleum is the best ever discovered, and we have the best mode of refining it

FIRE-PROOF OIL IS BETTER THAN COAL OIL.

This resplendent oil is colorless, odorless, smokeless, brilliant, and safe—in ANY kind of lamp. Yet out of lamps it will not burn at all, even if burning torches are dipped into it. It will only burn with something to act as a wick, and about the house is as harmless as water.

Judges, lawyers, doctors, ministers, druggists, planters, and all educated or scientific men, who appreciate the dangers from common coal oil, should give at least one trial to

FIRE-PROOF OIL.

☞ Money in every case refunded if simply requested.

Economy in Fire-proof oil because it lasts enough longer to balance apparent difference in cost.

Our trade-mark—FIRE-PROOF OIL. Fire-proof Oil put up in convenient tin cans of all sizes, sealed, stamped, and warranted. For sale by Druggists and Grocers everywhere.

The St. Martin's and St. Joseph's Benevolent Societies of Newport will leave for Louisville on the Saturday evening train, to attend the general Catholic convention, which convenes here on next Monday.

The rains last week enabled a great many growers of Mason and Bracken counties to set out their tobacco plants. It was feared the predicted dry weather would ruin the prospect for this important crop.

Sam. Smith, who claimed John Young Brown's seat in Congress because the latter beat him only 8,000 or 10,000 votes, is speaking a Radical piece in the Second District. The Radical Greenville Republican says he is a gifted young lawyer.

The wheat crop in Mason, says the Maysville Bulletin, is now fairly made, and, it is believed, if no more rain should fall before harvest, it will still be a successful crop. We have heard no complaint from any quarter of blight or insect, except, in the last two or three days, a little complaint of midge.

The Democracy of Mason have nominated this ticket: For County Judge, Joseph K. Sumrall; County Attorney, Garrett S. Wall; County Clerk, George W. Sulser; Sheriff, Perry Jefferson; County Assessor, W. L. Parker; County Jailer, William Carr; County Surveyor, Samuel Riley; Coroner, Magnus T. Cockrell.

On Saturday a man in Maysville named McDaniel crept up behind another named Safford, with whom he had a short time before had a difficulty, and struck him on the back of the head with a heavy bar of iron. The wounded man was from Augusta, but at the time was working in James Hall's plow factory. He was very badly injured. McDaniel was placed in jail.

A meeting of the Licking and Big Sandy Railroad Company will be held at Augusta, Bracken county, Ky., on the 7th inst. It is the intention of the company to submit another proposition to the voters of Campbell county in August next, for the county to take stock in the road. A smaller sum than $500,000 will be asked for, and on somewhat different conditions from those presented at the late election.

In Covington, Wednesday night, policemen arrested Mrs. Williams, who was throwing stones at a house near the corner of Thirteenth and Russell streets. When they approached her she ran to a large pond in that vicinity and jumped into it. The water being quite deep, the policemen had considerable difficulty in rescuing her. When taken out she was nearly dead, but was finally resuscitated and conveyed to jail for safe keeping. She is supposed to be crazy.

The Maysville Bulletin, referring to the killing of two horse-thieves in Rowan county, says: "The affair has created quite a sensation in both Fleming and Rowan counties, and the good people of both counties declare that this is the only way to deal with the daring scoundrels who have been such a terror to the peaceful people of that region. The civil law has proved itself utterly powerless to stop the depredations which have so long been committed by the Underwood gang. No sheriff can arrest them. They have driven from their own neighborhood every good citizen, and live in their mountain fastness surrounded by as desperate a set of brigands as ever infested any neighborhood. Nothing but the strong arm of the military can dislodge them. Since the death of Hyatt, we learn, they threaten vengeance against several persons who are supposed to have been with the party who killed him. A war of extermination will be waged against them by an indignant people if the State authorities do not adopt some means of bringing them to justice."

A fatal duel occurred in Terrebonne parish, Louisiana, Monday of last week. George F. Belden, a brother of the Attorney General of the State, was shot and killed in a duel by the editor of the Houma Eagle. The quarrel originated between the representatives of the Patriot and Eagle. The editor of the Patriot refusing, Belden accepted the challenge and took his quarrel, and was killed.

A few days ago, as a tree was being sawed up by Mr. Landsberg's mill, located at Fairburn, Ga., the saw came in contact with a metal substance, and was nearly ruined before it could be stopped. Upon investigation it was discovered that a grape-shot had become imbedded in the heart of the tree, and that the scar on the surface had so grown up as to be unnoticeable. This shot was probably fired during the war.

The latest remarkable dog story comes from Charlottesville, Va. A few Sundays ago the Doctor was preaching in the absence of Mr. Cutler, the regular pastor, in the Disciples' church. Near the close of the sermon his dog got up, stretched himself, and walked around uneasily. The Doctor taking no notice of this, the dog deliberately looked around till he found the Doctor's hat, took it in his mouth, carried it up to him, and would not leave till he was relieved of it. He then went down in front of the pulpit and waited impatiently for a few minutes for the Doctor to take the hint. Finding he would not, he looked around and got his stick and carried it to him; which hint was quickly taken by the Doctor, for fear that he might do something worse.

An editorial fracas, resulting in the shedding of blood, took place at Martinsburg, West Va., on Tuesday last, between D. S. Eichelberger, editor of the Valley Star, and Wm. Logan, Esq., editor of the New Era—the sequence of sharp, personal editorial articles. The fight is recorded by the Charlestown Free Press: "Mr. Eichelberger was standing near the court-house steps at the moment when Mr. Logan came from the court-room, the former remarking 'Stop! you cannot sneak by me in that way; you must fight.' Whereupon pistols were drawn and fired. It is not definitely known who fired the first shot. Eichelberger's pistol was discharged once and snapped twice, missing the editor of the Era, but wounding a horse. Mr. Logan fired three times, the last shot taking effect in the right arm of the editor of the Star at the wrist, passing around the bone and going out near the elbow. Mr. Eichelberger, with perfect self-possession, held up the wounded arm and said 'I am wounded, but bang away!' Decided pluck was evinced by both parties."

The Mammoth Cave Press excursion party returned to the city last night at 10 o'clock, and many at once took connecting trains for their homes. The excursion was in every respect a grand success. Indeed it could not have been otherwise with such gentlemen and ladies as composed it. There were eighty—all told—and we doubt if ever there was a more enjoyable occasion in Kentucky.

A citizen of Bowling Green, who says that he has a brother in an iron-foundery here, addresses the following inquiry to the editor of this paper: "I notice in your issue of to-day a statement of a remarkable spell of weather in your city last month, when the iron-founders had to throw their pig-metal into the river to keep it from melting. Will you be so kind as to inform me what became of the men—whether they melted or not?" Yes, the men melted too. An earnest effort was made to save them by keeping them constantly deluged with ice-water, but in vain; and their remains are now floating, like flakes of tallow, far down the Mississippi.

The Philadelphia Inquirer has discovered "the best way out of our Indian difficulties." That way is to establish a territorial government over the Indians, and then, "if they do wrong, let them be punished by the courts." This is the most sensible suggestion that has yet been made in connection with the matter. Let all the hostile Indians be gathered into one territory, let a criminal court be established in the midst of them, let Sheridan be made Sheriff, with a posse comitatus of fifty or sixty thousand well-armed men, and abundant facilities for spreading the small-pox by machinery, and in the course of half a century the Indian question will have been settled.

In order to show the enormous magnitude of the public debt of this country the Hon. J. Proctor Knott produces the following curious statistics: "Each greenback dollar bill is about seven inches in length. Place two thousand and five hundred millions of them in a line and it will be over 250,000 miles long! It is 25,000 miles around the earth. The public debt would therefore make a band of greenback dollars that could encircle the globe more than ten times! It is 240,000 miles to the moon. If this is so, our debt would make a rope of greenback dollars long enough to cable the moon to the earth and have over 10,000 miles to sag!" We object to this thing of squandering so much on the sag. By all means let the ten thousand miles of extra funds be divided equally between the Freedmen's Bureau and the man who makes the rope.

The Blackwood article against Dizzy is considered an effort on the part of a clique of sharp Tory politicians to get rid of the author of Lothair. And wherefore? Mr. Disraeli has run his course. He is over seventy years of age. When he ceased to be Prime Minister he ceased to be a power in England. That was a dreadful fall. But every one, the Premier himself, recognized it to be final, the end of a brilliant, romantic career, the exit of the oddest actor of the century from the stage of practical influence. Fancy a clique of shrewd, old-line Whig politicians in this country devising means to get rid of Millard Filmore, or a shrewd squad of New York wire-pullers arranging for the disposal of Mr. Horatio Seymour, or a body of New Englanders seriously considering the danger that threatens the Democracy from Caleb Cushing, and you will have some idea of this movement, sufficiently important to be dispatched by cable, upon the earth-works of the Right Honorable B Disraeli. Mr. Disraeli is safe. He is safe because "the past at least is secure." He has had his day.

A case of more or less interest to railroads, and to people who travel on them with free passes, was decided by a New York jury last Monday, after a trial of two weeks. The suit was brought by Tracy E. Roberts against the Toledo and Wabash railroad company for damages for injuries received by the overturning of a car near Lafayette, Indiana, in January, 1865. Mr. Roberts suffered a permanent disability, through dislocation of the hip. The defense was that the accident was unavoidable, and could not have been foreseen or prevented; that the dislocation of the hip was caused by a subsequent fall; and that Mr. Roberts was traveling on a free pass, granted on condition that the company were not to be liable for injuries from accident. The plaintiff testified that though he had traveled on a free pass he had destroyed it at Indianapolis, not expecting to have to go back, but that afterward a communication from his firm in New York induced him to retrace his steps for the purpose of finding a creditor. Railroad officials, on the other hand, testified to admissions on his part that he had a pass at the time of the accident. Judge Brady charged the jury that if they found he had a pass, he was bound by its conditions, and was without remedy. The jury gave the plaintiff $6,000.

The following is the complete official vote of the recent judicial election in the State of New York:

Democrats.		Republicans.
Church	239,663	Selden	152,338
Allen	239,209	Mason	151,984
Grover	238,834	Andrews	151,860
Peckham	236,337	Folger	154,667
Rapallo	235,777	Hale	150,583

Folger and Andrews are the two Republicans chosen Associate Judges to represent the minority. The Court of Appeals of the State of New York, therefore, is constituted as follows: Chief Judge, Sanford E. Church; Associate Judges William F. Allen, Rufus W. Peckham, Chas. J. Folger, Martin Grover, Chas. A. Rapallo, Chas. Andrews—five Democrats and two Republicans. The new court will enter upon its duties on the first Monday in July next. The Commission of Appeals, to be composed of the four Judges of the present Court of Appeals, elected by the people at large, and a fifth Judge, to be appointed by the Governor and Senate, will organize and enter upon its duties on the same day. As Judge Grover, who goes into the new court, is one of the four, the Governor will have another to appoint, the Judiciary Article providing for so filling any vacancy. The three Judges, aside from Grover, are John A. Lott and Robert Earl, Democrats, and Ward Hunt, Republican. The Governor, of course, will appoint two Democrats, so that the commission will stand four Democrats to one Republican.

The Pressure on the Ballot Box.

The thirteenth section of the act passed by Congress to enforce the Fifteenth amendment authorizes the President of the United States to employ such part of the land and naval forces of the United States or of the militia, as shall be necessary to aid in the execution of judicial process issued under the provisions of the act. It is a little curious that the tenth section of the same act has a similar provision authorizing the United States Marshals and their deputies and the special marshals appointed to enforce the law to summon and call to their aid such portion of the land or naval forces of the United States, or of the militia, as may be necessary to the performance of the duty with which they are charged, and to insure a faithful observance of the Fifteenth amendment. The bill was prepared with great care, and there is very little in it that is superfluous. The two sections referred to above do not mean the same thing. The tenth section only authorizes the marshals to call to their aid such of the military force of the United States as may be at hand, to aid in the execution of any particular process that may have been issued to them; but the tenth section opens the door to the location of troops in any part of the country, where it may be deemed advisable to overawe the community into full submission to the Fifteenth amendment and the laws enacted to carry it into operation. Thus the President, if he thinks it necessary, may send an army into Kentucky or New York, and the marshals may use it at pleasure to aid in diligently and immediately executing any process that may be issued, on the complaint of any one prompted by private malice or party zeal. The number of commissioners and marshals provided for will prevent any delay in issuing or executing process, and a few judicious arrests at the point of the bayonet, on election day, would deter many from going to the polls, and would give a quietus to that persuasive kind of electioneering that is a part of our political system. It remains to be seen whether the law will be impartially enforced, but we apprehend that all the warrants issued will be against those who are opposed to the party which has made such liberal provision in the way of commissioners, marshals and bayonets. The zealous Republican who collars a colored voter and takes him to the polls to vote the Radical ticket will be doing the State some service as well as enlightening the negro on the subject of his political duties; but the Democrat who intimidates a negro by telling him that the Radicals are only making a tool of him will commit a great crime, the evil example of which can only be averted by the bayonet, and which can only be compensated by his paying the intimidated voter five hundred dollars, and by his vindicating the outraged majesty of the law by suffering incarceration and a heavy fine and paying the commissioners and special marshals their full fees. This bill, which is now only waiting the signature of the President to become a law, is objectionable in many respects, but perhaps its most obnoxious feature is the prominence given to the bayonet. The presence of an army is always repugnant to the feelings of freemen, but when in times of profound peace an army is thrust forward to supervise and control local elections the repugnance of the freeman either blazes into a stronger feeling or sinks into despair of the Republic.

In the distillation of whisky, from the 1st of May, 1869, to the 1st of May, 1870, there has been a large business transacted. The books of Mr. Assessor Needham show that 309,288 bushels of grain have been consumed, and that the product of fourteen distilleries amounts to 1,096,897 gallons, and the tax assessed and collected to $697,141 80. Valuing the product of the distilleries at $1 25 per gallon, we have, as the result of the year's operations, $1,370,496 25. The wide celebrity of Kentucky whisky gives assurances that, at the close of the current year, the sum total will be largely in advance of the above showing.

In the manufacture of cigars, the books of the Assessor show there are 106 establishments engaged, and that during the year they have produced 11,065,175 cigars, which have paid a tax of $55,325 87. If we average the value of these cigars at $20 per 1,000, we have as the result of the year's operation $221,303 58.

The manufacture of tobacco is an item of great magnitude in the industrial affairs of Louisville. The returns for the year, as shown by the books of Mr. Needham, show the product of the factories to be 2,929,370 pounds, the average price of which we estimate at the factories to be 50c per pound, giving as the result of the year's operations $1,464,685.

It should be borne in mind that there is in Louisville, as in other cities, a large number of establishments engaged in manufacturing, the annual production of which is less than $5,000. While we have no reliable data upon which to base an estimate of the number or the amount of the production of this class of industrial enterprises, we do not hesitate to hazard the opinion that they number fully five hundred, employing in the aggregate a large capital and turning out wares which contribute immensely to the commerce of the city.

These establishments are annually increasing their capital and growing in importance. As their wares become introduced and are known in the market they displace the same class of goods that have hitherto been imported from other points, and in a few years these establishments will become of recognized importance in the manufacturing enterprises of the city.

That Louisville is making substantial progress in manufacturing enterprises is evident to the most casual observer—nay more, that this advancement is to be greatly accelerated in the future nobody will question who is at all familiar with the advantages Louisville offers for the investment of capital in the production of a great variety of wares that are in constant demand, and have enriched other localities less favorably situated. The sensitiveness of capital is an admitted fact, and parties controlling money are cautious about their investments. To the casual observer the way may look clear and a fortune certain, when to the eye of the practical man a variety of difficulties have to be overcome before any large measure of success is probable. Labor, material, transportation and motive power are seperately discussed, the whole ground surveyed, and where there is the greatest combination of these elements of success there capital is certain to concentrate. In these grand essentials Louisville has been making rapid strides during the past decade, and now holds out inducements which cannot fail to attract capital and give impetus to manufactures. With a rapidly increasing population, the question of skilled and common labor is settled—with railroads radiating to every point of the compass there need be no doubt with regard to transportation facilities. If water-power is preferred, it is here in overwhelming abundance. If, on the contrary, steam is preferred, the fuel question is likely to be solved at an early day, and steam power can be obtained as cheap as in any Western city. As for materials, there are no points in the country more favorably situated for obtaining all necessary supplies.

Women's Bills.

The suit of the Boston milliner against a refractory customer who objected to being overcharged nine hundred dollars in a dress-making account, has caused the scales to fall from the eyes of many husbands. The enterprising dispenser of fashionable gew-gaws wrote a rich letter to her victim, threatening to put the affair in the newspapers. Fancy the feelings of the Boston husband upon being threatened with the terrors of a remorseless reporter! In the present instance the milliner reckoned without her host; for neither the ironical letter nor the publishing of the bill against the fashionable wife brought the money. The dreadful part of this clothes question was, that it was not so much the material that cost as "the trimmings" and "making." And a fearful array of figures they made, forsooth! The milliner's contempt for the fashionable wife is finely shown in her giving as a model customer the name of another Boston beauty, whose bill from January 1st to April 1st was four thousand dollars, while she (the fashionable wife) was actually objecting to a little bill of $1,911 11, which was only nine hundred more than other milliners were charging. Just think, will you, for a moment, oh ye much married men, how long you would last on 'change if your clothes cost every man of you four thousand dollars in four months, with a probable increase for the summer months. That sum would buy a stock of clothing to go into the slop-shop business with—would secure as many acres of land in the West—would purchase eight hundred head of cattle in Texas, a foreign consulate, eight cadetships, or a carriage and horse; and yet there are people who compare the personal expenses of the two sexes and figure it out that one spends about as much as the other.

Now, here is what all of this folly and extravagance ends in—bankruptcy, ruin and crime. There is no use mincing the matter. Whenever mere clothes are made a test of position, respectability or worth, and are regarded as the principal recommendation to social distinction, then personal virtue, integrity of character, and all the social graces and accomplishments, may as well be ignored and the maxim taken by society as its rule, that "clothes are the criterion of merit."

It is a notorious fact that the average American girl in comfortable circumstances spends far more money in a year than an English nobleman's daughter. The Duke of Buccleuch allowed his favorite daughter only sixty pounds (three hundred dollars) a year for dress and pin money, and one of the Queen's most valued friends and maids of honor for many years only had twenty pounds (one hundred dollars) per annum to dress upon; and yet both were the daughters of men of exalted rank, and one of them at court for years.

It is no wonder there is such a difference in the amount a man spends upon his clothes and what his wife and daughters do, but it is passing strange that men of moderate fortune will tolerate such ruinous folly, and continue to "dig and delve, toil and moil," that the womankind may outdress a Duke's daughter. The ass and the camel used to be regarded as the embodiments of patience under grievous burdens, but henceforth the American husband will claim the right to that attribute, and be known to future generations as the Matrimonial Coolie of the nineteenth century.

Two Dogs and one Bone.

That is a curious and instructive case of George and Oliver Barrett in Wisconsin. George and Oliver Barrett were brothers. They both had wives, and the two families lived in the same house. Of course the women quarreled often, and of course the brothers took the part each of his own wife. Under the house was a cellar, with an outside hatchway leading to it, and about this hatchway there was trouble between the women. To put a stop to it the brothers constructed a board partition in the hatchway, thus making two entrances to the cellar—one for each family. And then one family wanted the cellar-door kept open and the other wanted it closed. To remove this second difficulty George Barrett made a slat-door for the cellar, so that light and air could enter with the door shut. With this compromise Oliver was not satisfied—at least somebody wasn't, and possibly it was his wife. Indeed, it is safe to say that ten to one it was his wife. So Oliver gathered his ax one Sunday and cut away the slat-door. Just then George came out of the house with a butcher-knife in his hand, and the decisive battle of the war was fought. Oliver struck at George with the ax two or three times, and George let his knife into the side of Oliver, who ran a hundred feet or so and fell. Oliver's funeral came off in a day or two; and George's trial followed in due time. The plea of insanity was added to that of justifiable homicide for the benefit of George, but the jury rejected both the one plea and the other, and as soon as the judge gets ready to report we shall know when George is to be hanged. This story is not without its moral. It teaches that two brothers whose wives are not deaf and dumb and blind and paralyzed in all their limbs should never attempt to live in the same house. Look, too, at the Siamese Twins. They are generally believed to be own brothers, and their wives are own sisters, and yet it is said that there have been times when one house was hardly large enough to contain even them. In fact, everything goes to show that where there are two women in the family there must also be two houses, or a fight.

☞ It has been asserted that what Anna gives in the way of charity "is nothing to nobody." But this is a slander. Not long ago she lectured at Saginaw, Michigan, for the benefit of the Home for the Friendless, and proved herself really the friend of the homeless. Of the proceeds of the lecture, she gave the institution ten dollars and a quarter, reserving only two hundred dollars for herself. Such disinterested benevolence is as beautiful as it is rare.

☞ A New York journal wants to send two or three of the strong-minded women on a lecturing tour to the Fejee islands. They ought to go by all means. It would do more to cure the people there of cannibalism than all the preaching the missionaries can do in twenty years.

☞ A Washington correspondent asks: "Would not the introduction of a few Indians into Congress have a good effect?" If they were introduced with instructions to clean out the concern, with scalping-knives and tomahawks, the effect would, indeed, be admirable.

☞ If the soldiers who, during the war, "died that the Union might live" had known at the start what a vast quantity of wretched doggerel would be called forth by the late "decoration day," they would have been more than willing to let the Union slide.

☞ The New York Tribune says "There may be a deep symbolical meaning when a Senator carries his hands in his pockets." There is certainly a deep diabolical meaning when he carries his hands to other people's pockets, as he very often does.

☞ When such men as Whittemore go into Congress, all honest men should go out of it, which they could do, it is feared, without reducing either House below a quorum.

☞ If Congress desires to revive the habit the American people once had of rejoicing on the Fourth of July, it ought to adjourn permanently on that day.

☞ Mrs. Woodhull is still in the field as a candidate for the Presidency. She probably forgets that the candidate who wins must strip for the race.

Labor.

Labor is capital. Bestow good health upon a man, so that he can labor every six out of seven days, and no matter how poor he may have been at the commencement of life's great race, he will be certain to accumulate a fortune, provided he takes care of his earnings. PLANTATION BITTERS is certain to make the weak ones strong, and to preserve the health of the healthy. From four to six hours is considered the ordinary limit for brain work. At the expiration of this time the phosphorus is carried off, and the man becomes irritable and nervous. If he is poor, and continues on at his task, as most of poor doctors, lawyers and editors do, he will be certain to shorten his days and fill an untimely grave, as did Sir Walter Scott, unless he uses Plantation Bitters, which speedily restores his vital energy, repairs his indigestion, and corrects the sluggish circulation of his blood.

[Letter from Col. W. K. Higgins, of the Blue-grass Region.]

LEXINGTON, KY., May 30, 1870.

W. H. Wolther, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: Some two years since my health was feeble, and my weight reduced to one hundred and twenty-five pounds. At the suggestion of a friend I commenced using your Tonic Bitters. After taking a few bottles my health was entirely restored, and my weight increased to one hundred and fifty pounds; and I firmly believe that, under Providence, I am indebted to your Tonic Bitters for my return to good health. I send you this letter for publication, as I am well known in this part of Kentucky, and desire to add my humble testimony to the efficacy of your truly valuable medicine.

Very truly yours,
W. K. HIGGINS.

ROCKBRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS, VA.

OPEN MAY 15, 1870.

THIS favorite and celebrated watering place is now in complete order for the reception of guests. Important improvements have been added to the buildings since the establishment passed into the hands of the present proprietor, and it is his purpose to keep it in a style not surpassed anywhere in Virginia. The waters of these special springs either cure or greatly relieve most cases of Scrofula, Incipient Consumption, Chronic Bronchitis, Chronic Laryngitis, Chronic Pneumonia, Chronic Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea, Chronic Dysentery. They are also of great value in those affections which are peculiar to the female constitution, and as an appetizer, a tonic and general restorative, they are, perhaps, unrivaled amongst mineral waters. The proprietor will have provided for the lawns and ball-room a first-class band of music, and in general all the sources of amusement and recreation usually found at our best summer resorts will be at the command of the guests at "ROCKBRIDGE ALUM." The place is within eleven to thirteen hours of Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, &c., by rail, all in daylight. Passengers leave the cars of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad at Goshen Depot, and new and elegant stage coaches, passing rapidly over a smooth and level road of only eight miles, set down the visitors at the Springs to tea.

LOAN

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Co

THE CHESAPEAKE & OHIO Railroad

is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles farther, making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia, and thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, Southwestern, and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportation of the great West and Southwest.

It will make a short, easy, cheap, and favorable route from the West to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire line—($15,000,000).

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, Property and Equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative, and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

Investors and Capitalists

Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted security.

The Bonds are in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100,

and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.

Interest six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1 and NOVEMBER 1.

Principal and Interest Payable in GOLD in the City of New York.

Price 90 and accrued interest in currency, at which price they pay nearly 7 per cent. in Gold on their cost.

All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of express charges.

They can be obtained by ordering direct from us, or through any responsible bank or banker in any part of the country.

ROUND-ABOUT.

I.

Art.

A Miss Davis, of New York, has executed a meritorious bust of the late Louis Moreau Gottschalk, and two pictures of Edwin Booth as Macbeth and Hamlet. Constant Mayer has returned from Paris and taken a studio on Broadway, New York. Mr. Benoni Irwin has just finished an admirable portrait of Dr. Humphrey, the pastor of one of the Presbyterian churches in this city which is excellent as a likeness and a painting. It may be seen at Escott's, on Main street.

II.

A Model Husband.

A Boston husband, goaded to madness by the demands of an insatiable milliner, has thrown himself into the arena and is doing gladiatorial service against the fashionable lionesses that would devour him in sport. From the thousands of dunned husbands who view the struggle with streaming eyes and bated breath come up from every part of the land words of cheer to the noble modern Athenian who has offered himself up as a sacrifice on the altar of Justice. Let Congress give him a pension, Vinnie Ream do his bust and a New England poet of capacity put him into a poem. Such heroism recalls Lexington, Bunker's Hill and Fort Fisher. Coolidge is the name of the martyr who is destined to live in the annals of the proud old Bay-State; and Mrs. Flynt (see Skin) the monster who would devour him.

III.

Lex Talionis.

The success which has crowned the thieving enterprise of certain publishers, who have for years been selecting the best English books and articles and republishing them in this country, without the consent of the authors or paying them a penny, has suggested to a shrewd Briton the starting of a magazine in London, made up entirely from the best things in the current American literature. This is all very well but will prove a losing business in the end, as the literary merit of most of the articles which may be cribbed from any of our periodicals is so inferior to the best English reviews that one specimen will fully satisfy those readers in England who may have any desire to dip into the "best selections from the American magazines." This feeble attempt at retaliation will only serve to amuse our publishers who have grown rich off of the stealings from British brains they have been issuing so long, and only make them steal more and with, perhaps, better taste hereafter.

IV.

Frou Frou's Advice to Wives.

"Do not go away this summer and leave your poor husbands at home solitary and alone. Is it more necessary for a woman, who has only the petty cares and vexations of life to contend with, to have change of air, than for a man, who has to bear the burden and heat of the day? The poor man, who toils with brain and fingers from morning till night, and sometimes from night until morning again—upon whom rests the responsibility of the whole family. He earns the money; his family spends it. It is his pride to feed, clothe and educate his children in the best manner, and is it not a very small return to make, just to receive the tired worker when he comes home in the evening? Change of air is necessary for all, especially for the hard-working man;—and 'tis not requisite to go far to obtain it. Within one hour's ride from the city, the summer can be charmingly spent and health secured. The little travel each day upon cars or boat would be beneficial, not tiresome, and, with an expectant wife and children at the route's end, an hour's ride seems short, indeed. Wives, picture to yourselves the deserted home in summer. Covered carpets and furniture; mirrors and pictures looking ghostly in their white wrappings; ornaments gone from their accustomed places, and a deadly silence reigning throughout the house where usually is heard sweet voices. One servant, who is monarch of all, usually doles out a miserable dinner to the real owner, who dares not complain, fearful the treasure may depart during his wife's absence, and then what could he do? While he sits in his uncomfortable home, tired, warm, and desolate, the young wife is perhaps at Saratoga enjoying the attentions—innocent, of course—of some fop, who finds time and money, goodness knows how, to spend every season at some fashionable watering-place; and the old wife is busy displaying her daughters, hoping to secure good husbands for them, little thinking that men who make good husbands are not usually at Saratoga. You can hardly wonder at the depravity of the age when you remember the wholesale leaving at home of husbands. If a man seeks his home in the evening, and misses the familiar greetings, and beholds everything 'upside down,' you can hardly blame him if he seeks some more congenial spot, for hu-man-ity is weak at best, and unconsciously becomes interested in some one who is perhaps not the best one in whom to become interested. These summer desertions are bad for both husband and wife. The husband forms some acquaintance, but not of his wife's. Her friends are all out of town. This acquaintance, he knows, his wife would object to; therefore the novelty of doing something forbidden makes the action quite spicy and agreeable. The wife, away from the watchful, loving eyes of her husband, forgets she is too attractive to escape the Argus-eyed slanderers who are always so well pleased to discover crime where there has only been a little imprudence. Conscience may be clear, but fair fame has been tarnished, and the world's memory is so good on this point that slander is almost as powerful as crime. How charming it must be for the lonely husband to hear how his wife was the belle of the ball, and had received most devoted attention from Count This or No Account That! Truth, now, I'd rather suffer the chills and fever, be devoured by the mosquitoes, or be dried by the heat, than leave my husband for the summer; and I am young, gay, and would enjoy fashionable watering-places with Mr. Frou-Frou as much as any one in the world. Now, wives, do be good, and take husbands with you this summer."

The husband then half smothered her with chloroform, after which he completed her death by strangulation. De Garrett, to whom he afterwards sent a challenge for a duel a l'outrance, declined to fight with him, but intimated that he was willing to lose his life as an expiation for the injury inflicted, adding that he should pass a certain spot at such an hour. The injured man, however, did not carry his revenge further, but went to the Prefecture of Police and constituted himself prisoner. The other, it was rumored, had entered a Trappist monastery. The murdered lady was only nineteen.

CHICAGO.

A Day with the Shrieking Sisterhood—The Immortal and Perennial Susan—Sketches of Numerous Sisters—"Why isn't a Woman President?"

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

CHICAGO, June 1.

I really have never enjoyed myself more, nor laughed so much in twenty years, as I did the other day during the session of the shrieking sisters, or scratching hens, as one of their own body most appropriately called them. Their desperate attempts at parliamentary dignity, and grave endeavors to make the audience believe them thoroughly in earnest, were laughable indeed. During the hottest of the anti-slavery days, there was nothing equal to the state of the present unhappy times. "Still harping on my daughter" does not express half the impatience we feel when the word woman is used. Just the bare utterance of one of the many names which express her, or even gives a hint of her, is like twitching the string to a jumping jack—sets her all flying out at once; she tosses every vice and virtue, every attainment and every attainable thing, which is possible for even the most phenomenal of the sex to possess, plump into your eyes and ears, until your hair stands on end. If you happen to be a man, happily you only feel that worst of all sensations, satiety towards that which was intended to be a blessing; but if you are unfortunate enough to be a woman, you hate yourself most cordially. But I must describe to you some of this deluge of lecturers, this equinoctial of talking women.

The immortal and perennial Susan B. takes precedence, of course. She held forth in her usual determined and eloquent, if not convincing, style. She is also wonderfully ready at filling up every little gap in proceedings, when none of the less experienced sisters are quite ready with any thing to say. Whatever our belief in the cause she advocates, we can not but respect and admire her energy and unalterable fidelity to the principles she professes.

Next in importance, I suppose, ought to come "Mrs. Chairman," as Sister Judge Waite calls her, who is a very sharp-eyed, abrupt, little woman, with a quick, determined air, looking quite competent to take care of herself with assistance from the "tyrant man." She opens and shuts her mouth with an almost audible snap, as if it were worked by invisible electric springs. Wo to the sister who, in her ardor, exceeded the half hour allotted for speeches. Out would come the sharp little Chairwoman's watch, and up she would jump and promptly suppress the luckless sister without regard to argument or peroration.

She gave way to Mrs. Waite, who evidently came upon the stage in her war-paint; for being interrupted several times by cries of "louder," she became quite exasperated and said, "she believed she was talking loud enough to be heard all over Chicago; but she could talk louder—oh, yes, louder"—each time with a rising inflexion of voice, until it almost became a shriek. I was irresistibly reminded of a similar outburst from a cousin of mine, Tom Marshall, of Kentucky, who, having been interrupted several times in one of his witty lectures, said, "he verily believed that when the heavens were opened, and the great and good God came in all his glory, surrounded by countless numbers of angels, with the vast hosts of quick and dead, assembled before him for judgment, as soon as the great books were opened there would be some d—d infernal fool on the outskirts of the crowd to cry 'Louder, Lord, louder.'" If Mrs. Waite did not make use of any such emphatic language, she looked as if she would most prodigiously like to.

Mrs. Waite was followed by an irrepressible brother, in the most extraordinary looking pair of pantaloons that ever came under my observation. Every attempt possible was made to suppress this brother, without success. He resolutely refused to give way until he had had his say; and even after he had been by repeated and desperate efforts silenced, continued to rise and gesticulate violently and defiantly with his hands, and move his lips, though no sounds came therefrom.

Besides the collection of brilliant meteoric lights upon the platform there were numerous members of the fair sisterhood scattered throughout the audience who were evidently thoroughly en rapport with the stage. Indeed we could not help thinking, from the numerous times they popped up and popped down without saying a word, that there were invisible wires attached to their legs and leading under the platform so as to be handy to be pulled when any one of them was needed to fill a gap, and that the members in moving about the stage accidentally trod upon the spring which moved them, causing them irresistibly to rise and then drop back again when released, as there was one tall, lank, short-haired sister who rose up and sat down automatically all of a dozen times without even speaking a word.

During the afternoon session I interviewed several of the sisters for the benefit of the Courier-Journal. One of them informed me that whenever she spoke a spirit moved her. I longed to ask if it was the spirit of old John Brown, which, I have been told, is "marching on;" and if so I hope it will continue to march and not halt again in Chicago. Another told me that the voluminous paper she then held in her hand, and which she was evidently exceedingly anxious for an opportunity to read, contained entirely new and original thoughts; that she made it a point never to say anything that had ever been said by any one else. I felt very much aggrieved that this "original" paper was not read during my stay, as I should very much like (and so also I am sure would your readers) to hear something upon this topic that has never yet been told. I can't conceive of what it could possibly be.

Sister Judge Waite does not speak or talk but declaims in a way that most comically reminds one of Bob Hart's stump speech. As to the matter, it, like Jack Bunsby, contains chunks of wisdom no doubt, but from its very evident effort at grandiloquence of erudition made me in spite of myself recall Bob Hart's Latin—'Bromidum, potassium, assafœtida, stale tomatoes, voloseepedos'—which is quite as much to the point. His wife during the oration bit her thin lips and clenched her hands as if her finger-ends were itching to clap a muzzle upon him if she could possibly be allowed to have her own way.

A thin, tall, gray-haired, gray-whiskered old gentleman informed the audience that "he was an old fogy and knew nothing about making speeches"—a most unnecessary piece of information, as there was no one present who was not perfectly capable of discovering the fact for themselves. Then turning fiercely he demanded "Why a woman was not President?" No one being able to solve the conundrum it was unanimously given up, and he quickly subsided without vouchsafing any explanation.

I should think it would effectually cure women of longing for the rostrum just to listen for one day to these ridiculous exhorters.

VASHTI.

LEGISLATIVE INTERFERENCE.

A Duel Recommended in the Tennessee Legislature.

[From the Nashville Banner, 3d.]

The following resolutions were introduced in the House yesterday by Mr. King, of Madison. The method proposed therein for the settlement of personal difficulties is certainly very novel and unique in its way:

Whereas, There has existed for years past, and still exists, a direful vendetta between Col. John Baxter and Gen. Joseph A. Mabry, of Knox county; and

Whereas, The peace of not only their immediate bailiwick, but of the entire State, is endangered, preparations for war progressing daily on both sides; and

Whereas, This deadly feud may result in direful battles, and much of the best blood in the country be spilled;

Now, therefore, in order that these hostile demonstrations may cease, and peace and order be restored to our once happy State,

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That the above-named individuals, viz: John Baxter and Joseph Mabry, repair to the classic grounds of Bladensburg, armed with double-barreled shot-guns, and fight it out on that line if it takes all summer.

Be it further resolved, That Captain Mose Nelson, of White Top notoriety, and George W. Bayne, of the county of Davidson, be requested to attend the combatants in the capacity of seconds, and that the affair be conducted under the immediate supervision of that distinguished invader, General John O'Neill.

Be it further resolved, That the principals are directed not to cease firing until both are declared dead.

Be it further resolved, That free tickets shall be furnished both ways, over the Mineral Home railroad, and all members of this General Assembly, not otherwise engaged, are invited to attend. Drinks to be mixed by the representative from Madison.

Be it further resolved, That funeral expenses, etc., shall be paid out of the assets of the Mineral Home railroad, and that all laws of this State and of the United States in conflict with these resolutions are hereby suspended.

HOPKINSVILLE.

The Appellate Judgeship—The Convention—Distinguished Members—The Proceedings—Nomination of Capt. Lindsey, Etc.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

HOPKINSVILLE, June 1, 1870.

Seldom in its history has the city of Hopkinsville had assembled within its limits such an array of men of talent and of influence as at the present time. Never, certainly, has there been here convened a larger and more respectable body of men than that which constitutes the convention to nominate a candidate for the Appellate bench. Among the distinguished delegates may be found the Hons. J. Q. A. King, J. M. Bigger and Thomas Moss, of McCracken; Judge Crossland, of Union; Judge Clssell, Hon. S. B. Vance, of Henderson; Hons. F. M. Allison and M. D. Hay, of Muhlenburg; Hon. Irvin Anderson, of Green; Col. Wullskin, of Simpson; Hon. Wm. Dulaney, Capt. Thos. Hines, Hon. H. H. Skiles, of Warren; Colonels Brevier, Bowling and Caldwell, of Logan; Hon. C. K. Bradley, of Hopkins; Hon. J. A. McKenzie and Hon. J. P. Campbell, of Christian; Hon. Fenton Sims, of Trigg; Hon. H. D. McHenry, of Ohio; Col. J. A. Ford, the talented editor of the Owensboro Shield; Hon. Wm. Sterrett, of Hancock, and other gentlemen whose reputation is not confined to any particular limits, but is co-extensive with the State itself. The purpose of this assembling together of these and other distinguished men at this place, is to nominate a Democratic candidate for the Judgeship of the Court of Appeals, to fill the vacancy on the bench occasioned by the expiration of the term of the Hon. Rufus K. Williams. Of the twenty-nine counties in the district, twenty-seven were represented.

At 11 o'clock the convention was called to order by Col. L. A. Sypert, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Christian county, upon whose motion Hon. John Q. A. King, of McCraken, was selected temporary chairman, and Jas. Hines, Esq., of Warren, editor of the Bowling Green Democrat, appointed secretary. At the assembling of the convention the friends of Hon. Caswell Bennett were confident that he would be the successful candidate. The supporters of Judge Thomas C. Dabney, of Trigg, were hopeful also, believing that the combined strength of Judge Geo. C. Rogers, of Warren, and Judge Charles Eaves, of Henderson, would rally to their support upon the last ballot. A permanent organization was effected by the selection of Hon. James A. McKenzie, of Christian, as permanent chairman, with James Hines, of Warren, assisted by the Democratic editors present, as secretaries of the convention. A rule was adopted requiring the successful candidate to receive a majority of all the votes which could be cast by the twenty-nine counties in the district, taking as the basis the Seymour vote, and giving one vote for every hundred Democratic votes and fraction over fifty.

Judge Caswell Bennett, of Livingston; Hon. Thomas C. Dabney, of Trigg; Hon. George C. Rogers, of Warren; Hon. Charles Eaves, of Henderson; Hon. P. Palmer, were placed in nomination.

On the first ballot the vote stood—Bennett 109, Dabney 65, Rogers 63, Eavs 48, Palmer 19. Votes in convention 321; necessary to a choice 161. The balloting proceeded—Eavs & Palmer being dropped until, on the fourth ballot, the vote stood: Bennett, 136; Rogers, 73; Dabney, 95. Before the result of the vote was announced, Col. R. S. Brevier, of Logan, withdrew the name of Hon. Geo. C. Rogers, the unanimous consent of the convention being given. On the next ballot the vote stood: Bennett, 146; Dabney, 157. No one having received 161, the majority of the district votes in the convention, another ballot was about to be had, when the name of the Hon. Geo. C. Rogers was again presented and that of Caswell Bennett "dropped" under the rule, he having received the least number of votes on the last ballot. Much discussion arose as to whether or not the name of Judge Rogers could again be presented. The Chair decided the nomination out of order. From which decision an appeal was taken; when the convention refused to sustain the Chair. A ballot being taken the vote stood, Rogers, 157½; Dabney, 145½. At the close of this ballot, no nomination having been effected, a motion to adjourn prevailed.

To-night the various delegations are caucusing, and there is no telling what will be the final result. Under the rule, Judge Dabney will be defeated, whether a new candidate will be put upon the track or upon the next ballot Judge Rogers will be nominated are questions which the morrow will decide. The friends of Judge Bennett pretty generally support the claims of Judge Rogers. To-night will witness much maneuvering and "pulling of wires."

THURSDAY, 2d June, 1870.

The convention met this morning at 9 o'clock. The entire morning was consumed in vain attempts to change the organic law of the convention. This afternoon a ballot was taken, Judge Bennett being allowed to again go before the convention, Judge Geo. C. Rodgers withdrawn, and the name of Capt. Wm. Lindsey, of Hickman, presented. On the first ballot the vote stood: Bennett, 135; Lindsey, 168. Mr. Lindsey was then declared the unanimous nominee. The nomination gave entire satisfaction. Speeches were made by Judges Rogers, Bennett and Dabney, pledging the nominee their most cordial support. The nominee of the convention, Captain Wm. Lindsey, is the most promising young lawyer in the State, and is as gallant, as true, and as noble a man as breathes. I am assured that Judge Williams will find in him a strong opponent, and I think there is no doubt of his election as Judge of the Fourth Appellate district of Kentucky by an overwhelming vote.

O'NEILL.

The Career of the Fenian Leader—His Distinguished Services in the Federal Army.

[From the New York Star.]

General John O'Neill was born in the townland of Drumgallien, parish of Clontibret, county Monaghan, Ireland, on the 8th of March, 1834. His father died a few weeks before his birth. In 1840 his mother emigrated to this country, leaving her children, our Fenian hero among them, with their grandparents, in Ireland. In 1843 she sent for the two eldest, but allowed John to remain at home, at the earnest request of his relatives. Five years later, however, John came over and joined the family, which had settled at Elizabeth, N. J. Before leaving Ireland he had attended the parochial school attached to the church, and acquired the rudiments of an English education, and on arriving in Jersey for a year availed himself of such educational advantages as that supposed-to-be benighted State affords her citizens. The young emigrant then entered a store at Elizabeth as clerk, and for a couple of years dispensed dry-goods and groceries, tobacco and molasses, and probably "Jersey lightning," to the subjects of Camden and Amboy. Being ambitious, the business naturally did not suit him, and he threw it up, and for a time engaged in circulating periodical literature. He traveled as agent for a New York publishing house, and afterwards was similarly employed by a London firm. His experience in the book line led to his establishing a Catholic book-store in Richmond, Va., in the fall of 1855, but the speculation proved unsuccessful. His leanings had always been for a military life, and this, probably, added to his business failure, determined his future course. In May, 1857, he enlisted in the Second U. S. cavalry, at Baltimore, from which regiment he was subsequently transferred to the First cavalry, and when the rebellion broke out, in 1861, he was serving with his regiment at Fort Crook, Cal. The regiment was at once ordered to Washington, where it arrived in December, 1861. It took part in McClellan's disastrous peninsular campaign, taking active part in the seven days' battle before Richmond. During these memorable days General O'Neill was in command of General Stoneman's body-guard, and on several occasions distinguished himself by his enterprise and soldierly conduct. At Gaines' Mills he had a horse shot under him, and on many other occasions narrowly escaped death. After McClellan's retreat to Harrison's Landing, the First cavalry was broken up, and most of the commissioned officers sent on recruiting service. From a private O'Neill, by his exemplary conduct, bravery and intelligence, had already raised himself from the ranks to the position of Sergeant-Major in the regular army, and, considering the brief period of his service, this rapid promotion was very unusual. Our Fenian hero was next ordered to Indianapolis to aid in forming and instructing the cavalry regiments then organizing in Indiana, and he so well discharged that duty as to attract the especial attention of Governor Morton, who commissioned him a Second Lieutenant in the 5th Indiana cavalry. His company took part in the celebrated chase of Morgan when that raiding warrior invaded Ohio in 1863, and in the pursuit General O'Neill greatly distinguished himself. He subsequently served with his regiment in East Tennessee, and was severely wounded whilst repelling a charge of the Confederates at Clinch river, Tenn. He was, at the close of the war, appointed a Captain in the regular army, but shortly afterwards resigned the position, and engaged in business at Nashville, Tenn. On the split taking place in the Fenian ranks, he espoused the side of the Canada invasion party, and, as is well known, led the forlorn hope at Fort Erie, in 1866, the unfortunate upshot of which is known to most of our readers. His election to the Presidency of the Fenian Brotherhood, and his record since are also matters too well known to need recapitulation.

☞ Robbery a la petite-verole, or by the help of small-pox, is the latest touch in Paris. A suffering patient is alone in bed when the rogue presents himself. "Now," says the latter, "tell me where to find your money and jewels. Don't get excited or you'll have a relapse; don't try to get out of bed or you'll catch cold;" and so saying fastens the bell-pull. Of course the victim yields.

The New Southern Methodist Bishop.

[From the Baltimore American.]

On the 21st of May the Rev. John Christian Keener was elected Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South by the General Conference, in session at Memphis, Tennessee.

Bishop Keener was born in Baltimore, Md., in 1819. In his ninth year he was placed under the personal charge of the late Rev. Wilbur Fisk, D. D., and entered the Wilbraham Academy, Massachusetts, of which Dr. Fisk was then Principal. Three years afterwards Dr. Fisk removed to the Wesleyan University, at Middleton, Connecticut, and Mr. Keener entered the first regular class that was formed in that Institute. He graduated in 1835. He went into the drug business in Baltimore shortly afterwards, and became Superintendent of a Sunday School.

At the end of one year in the business on his own account, during which time he made a profit of $4,600, he resolved to become a minister of the gospel, and immediately sold out that he might qualify himself for that office. He removed to Alabama and was licensed to preach in 1842. The following year he was admitted to the Alabama Conference. The appointments to which he was assigned in succeeding years were arduous and responsible.

In 1848 a man of peculiar qualifications was needed for the work of the church in New Orleans, which was then considered a difficult and dangerous post. Mr. Keener was selected. He has been almost continuously since that time identified with the cause of Methodism and of Protestantism in that city. He has been Presiding Elder of the district, with brief interruptions, since 1859. Since 1866 he has discharged, in addition to those of Presiding Elder, the duties of editor of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. He has devoted especial care to the colored churches, and has been very successful with them. His services during the prevalence of the yellow fever and other epidemics are remembered gratefully.

Dr. Keener is esteemed a preacher of a high order—"evangelical, exegetical, practical, and often enriched with Divine unction." He is a diligent student and a strong writer. He is a man of positive character and principle, with which he combines a pleasing address, and a willingness to compromise on non-essential points. The degree of D. D. was conferred on him by Lagrange College in 1856.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South now has eight Bishops.

General Starr's Official Report.

A Buffalo dispatch says: "General Starr during the late civil war commanded the 2d Kentucky Union cavalry, Kilpatrick's division, and has a good army record in the department at Washington. He says he arrived at Malone on Wednesday night, and learned that there were 1,200 men at the front. He hired a conveyance and reached the front on Friday, where he found, stragglers and all, not over two hundred men. Beyond the lines was Colonel Leary, with sixty men. Reaching the latter, he read his instructions, assumed command and returned to United States soil and organized the men present and marched them over the line to join Leary's command to prevent them being molested by the United States troops, then coming up. In mustering he found one hundred and eight men, and immediately threw up a barricade and put out a picket of seventeen men. In the morning the British troops advanced in force—the 69th regiment, four pieces of artillery and seven hundred volunteers forming the column. He saw it would be slaughter, if not downright murder, to resist such tremendous odds with a handful of men. He ordered the pickets to keep up a fire as the men fell back. The British troops fired volley at the pickets, but in so wild a manner as to do no harm. At this time Colonel Smith, with about one hundred Buffalo men, came up on the double quick, but they were ordered to fall back with General Starr's command. The retreat to the American line was conducted in an orderly and soldier-like manner. General Starr says he never saw a set of men more determined or more anxious to accomplish something. But one of his pickets was struck, and he only received a spent ball in the shoulder, which was extracted with a common pocket-knife after reaching the American line. He says the stories of Fenian demoralization and want of courage on the field of battle are false and slanderous, and had there been a regular plan and good management at first the men would have given a good account of themselves. Fenians here who believed the first reports now give General Starr credit for being a brave and prudent officer in refusing to sacrifice lives for braggadocio."

The St. Louis Republican of the 3d says: "The largest single train of freight that ever came over any road in this neighborhood was brought into the city on the Iron Mountain railroad on Wednesday. It consisted of 103 cars, loaded with iron ore, and was hauled by one engine."

A Lima (Ohio) special to the Cincinnati Commercial says: "Our citizens are now agitating the question of giving aid to the Lake Erie and Louisville railroad, and a meeting will be held here on Saturday evening next, to see what can be done in the matter. The road has been in operation some years between Fremont and Findlay, and is graded to within four miles of Lima. The company now controlling the road has offered to complete it to Lima within a year, providing the citizens along the line will give them $100,000 when completed. It is thought the money will be easily raised. The road is not expected to stop at Lima, but will go through to Union City, Ind. As the citizens of St. Marys, Selina and other points are very anxious for the railroad, they will give it substantial aid. The route from here to Union City is partially graded, and the remainder is well adapted for a railroad, little or no grading to be made and but few streams to bridge. When finished to Union City only a gap of thirty miles will remain to make a continuous line from Fremont to Louisville, Ky."

A Sacramento correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writes: "Another thing which promises no particular good to California is the manner in which that mighty corporation, the Central Pacific, is swooping down the railroads of this coast. One after another it has insidiously gobbled them up, till now it has absorbed seven distinct companies, and all but eighty-one miles of the completed roads of the State, aside from its own road over the Sierra Nevada. Its last grab is the California Pacific, between this city and Vallejo, so that now it commands all the avenues of approach to San Francisco, except the Sacramento river and the Pacific ocean. Let us be devoutly thankful that it cannot buy out those also. In fact, when you have named the Central Pacific and Wells, Fargo & Co., there isn't much left of California. But the Californians, one would think, rather like it. If a Californian wanted to send packages into the other world, he wouldn't consider them safe unless they went by Wells & Fargo's Express; and if he wanted to go himself, he would take no tickets except over the Central Pacific. Whether the newspapers like it or not, one can scarcely tell. They squeak and jibber, and speak with bated breath, lest somebody should hear them in the Central Pacific office."

The Knoxville Whig of the 2d says: "Lieut. W. C. Crozier, of Kentucky, the able engineer in charge of surveys for the location of the Cincinnati and Chattanooga Air Line railroad, is in town and stopping at the Atkin House. The route he has thus far located has passed through the roughest of the country, and gives an unexpectedly favorable line for the road. It has the advantage of being at once an economical and practical one for building. The engineer party are now at Huntsville, and expect to connect by a short branch with the Knoxville and Kentucky road on the present graded line, beyond Careyville. It is to be hoped, for the interest of Knoxville, that the eastern location of the Chattanooga and Cincinnati Air-line will be finally adopted and put through. The short distance which will have to be built in order to place Knoxville in connection and the greater directness of the line in communicating with Cincinnati will be great inducements in its favor. Lieut. Crozier is one of the few engineers who is devoted to his profession, and has broad, sensible views, bearing directly in his superior field of usefulness. It is to be hoped that success will crown the work of the engineers who have charge of it, and that no long time will elapse before the tide of freight and travel will daily course its way along the line of the Knoxville and Kentucky, and Knoxville and Charleston railways."

The weather yesterday was clear and fine with a very close temperature, the warmest part of the day being between 10 and 11 a. m. Doubtless this close temperature will bring on rain in a day or two. The river continues to recede, having fallen 6 inches in the twenty-four hours ending yesterday evening; now in the canal 6 feet 6 inches scant, and 4 feet 6 inches in the pass down the Indian chute.

The Silver Moon will be down this morning, and leave for Memphis at 5 p. m.

The Robert Burns, from Memphis to Cincinnati, will pass up to-day.

The J. W. Garrett and barges, for New Orleans, will pass down fully loaded.

The Champion is due from St. Louis to-morrow.

The Bermuda will be down this evening on her way to Evansville.

The Leonadas, from Cincinnati to New Orleans, will pass down to-morrow.

It is intimated from Memphis that the steamers Church and Wicks will very soon re-enter the St. Louis trade, for which they were built.

The J. H. Groesbeck and Alaska are due from New Orleans to-morrow. Both have a big lot of railroad iron for the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

The Leonora No. 2 will leave for Madison at 1 p. m. She is in apple-pie order, and ready to take picnic and other excursion parties at reasonable rates.

The steamer Kate Robinson, of the old reliable St. Louis express line, will be found at the city wharf early this morning, and leave for St. Louis at 12 m. precisely.

The John Kilgour, Captain Benson, left the Portland wharf yesterday evening for New Orleans with about 700 tons of freight. One item of her cargo was 1,500 barrels of pork.

The steamer Glendale, Captain J. D. Hare, from St. Louis to Pittsburg, with 30 barrels of whitening for this city, thinking that the city wharf did not need whitewashing, took her whitening over to Jeffersonville, thereby avoiding wharfage.

There is a lively competition going on between the Evansville, Paducah and Cairo packets, by which Capt. Dexter is seeking to drive the Idlewild from the trade, in order that he may secure a monopoly.—[Paducah Herald.

The Emma Floyd landed at the city wharf yesterday, and added 300 kegs powder, 250 barrels cement, 100 barrels lime and 10 or 15 tons of miscellaneous freight, and passed down the falls, drawing four and a half feet, in charge of Capt. Wm. Varble.

The Louisville and Tennessee river packet LeClaire No. 2, Captain Milt Axtn in command, with J. Morgan Smith in the office, will leave for Tennessee river at 5 o'clock this evening positively, giving through receipts to Florence. Shippers are requested to send forward their freight, as she will leave punctually at 5 p. m.

Capt. H. J. Brinker's new boat, building at Marietta, Ohio, for the Red river trade, is progressing finely. The following are her dimensions: Length, 168 feet; beam, 28 feet; depth of hold, 5½ feet; 18 inch cylinders, 6 feet stroke, with cabin full length, and as fine as they make them for the Red river trade. Her name has not yet been decided upon.

By a dispatch from Harry Walker, first clerk of the Mary Houston, we are advised that she will arrive at the Portland wharf at 10 a. m. to-day, and leave at 10 a. m. to-morrow on her return trip to New Orleans. The Mary Houston is one of the best boats in the trade, commanded and officered by polite and courteous gentlemen. Those having freight to ship or a trip to take down the river could not do better than to avail themselves of the present opportunity.

The Clarksville Tobacco Leaf speaks thusly of the second advent of the Tyrone: "This gallant old craft has been saved from her watery grave, and will soon again be repaired and welcomed back in her old trade. Captain Tom will again mingle as of yore in the giddy mazes of the dance, Weaver's face resume its financial look, and Jim Bias, the Stogi Polck, will revive the business of dispensing creature comforts and liquid delicacies—striped candy and vinegar toddies. Long may she wave."

We, in common with Captain J. Morgan Smith's innumerable friends, regret to learn that he had the sad and irreparable misfortune of losing his favorite dog Jessy. This invaluable dog was a great pet, not only with Capt. Smith, but the entire crew of the steamer Leclaire. Jessy had made not less than twenty trips to Tennessee river and return, and was never known to shrink from his duties, and was always affable and polite, both to the crew and passengers. When he arrived at the city wharf on last Tuesday he was thrice welcomed by all who knew him, and seemed to be more rejoiced than on any former trip. After the usual salutations, etc., Jessy concluded that he would visit his dear friends at home, who lived on Madison street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth. So off he started, not knowing that the forbidden fruit (better known as Baxter's pills) was to be set before him. Such was the case, however; and he, Adam-like, not fearing the consequences, partook freely of the fruit, or pills, and expired in about one hour. Before he died, however, many of his friends were called in to pay the last respects to this noble animal. After his death a suitable coffin was prepared, after which he was carried to the bone-yard and buried with the honors of war.

Local Stocks and Bonds—Are still changing hands in small lots, but no important transactions are reported. Nashville stock is in good demand, but there is none on the market, and the opinion is that it will go higher. City bonds and the various county bonds, which have been growing in favor among investors, are still in good demand.

COMMERCIAL.

The Philadelphia North American, a stanch high-tariff journal, which believes in the sacredness of the national debt, the infallibility of Congress and the Radical party, and that taxes are a luxury the refining influence of which ought not and cannot be dispensed with, in an article upon business prospects, attributes the present stagnation in business affairs, in a great measure, to the free-trade agitators. It says:

There can be no doubt, however, that the long-continued free-trade agitation for a reduction of the tariff, and the confident assertion of the power of the party to compel a general reduction, have impeded trade more than all other causes. For no one can be expected to buy goods largely with a prospect ahead of being obliged to sell them upon a falling market. Free-trade agitations invariably produce this effect, and hence importers and manufacturers and jobbers may more fairly attribute the general dullness of trade to the apprehension of reductions of duties producing lower prices. The retailers cannot afford to carry much in the way of a stock under such circumstances, nor can the jobbers, while, as for the importers, their business is impeded to such an extent that they hardly know what to do. On the other hand, an agitation for an increase in the duties does not create stagnation, since the wholesale dealers can lose nothing by their sales, no matter how often the duties may be increased.

* * * * *

There can be no doubt that the general dullness of trade has its effect upon the prices of produce, and causes much of the discontent of the Western interests. If the farmers were getting better rates for their crops, there would be less chance there for the free-trade agitation. Hence, for free-trade purposes, the farmers are required to suffer. If business men could be made to feel more confidence in the situation; to learn that there is no prospect whatever of an immediate resumption of specie payments, or a reduction of the tariff to a free-trade standard, there would be a general revival of activity, as capital is abundant, discounts easy, credit unimpaired, and business sound and reliable. Congress is not likely to mature and pass any bills calculated to inflict serious injury upon the commerce, manufactures, finances, credit, or general traffic of the country. That may be safely assumed by all our business men, who are desirous of resuming activity or of extending their operations upon a large scale. Our opinion is that there is no danger ahead.

We have at no time had any faith that Congress would pass any bill calculated to detract from the interests of a few parties who clamor for protection. We don't believe it has the honesty or the ability for such legislation, for, with the reduction of the taxes, the Radical party loses its power. The purse and the sword are the trump cards necessary to carry on successfully the game of the Government which it is now playing.

Cotton in Boston—The committee appointed to devise rules for the regulation of the cotton trade of Boston have submitted the following, which took effect the 1st inst.:

1. Sales shall be for cash on delivery. Purchasers to be allowed ten days time in which to receive cotton from store.

2. The delivery to the purchasers of the bill and weigher's certificate of that which is ready for delivery shall constitute the delivery, and pass absolute title to the cotton. Said delivery shall not affect any equitable claim between the purchaser and seller, agreeably to the following rules.

3. The purchaser shall have the right to reject any bales not grading up to samples, or any re-packed, mixed, packed or false packed bales not represented in the samples by which the cotton was sold; but he must take all that as equal (in equitable proportions of the different grades) to the sample by which he bought.

4. After cotton has been examined, received and passed upon, no claim shall be made against the seller, except for fraudulent package or damage not apparent. In such cases the purchaser shall have the right to retain any bales so packed with the original bagging and marks thereon—all charges and expenses made necessary by the return to be borne by the seller; provided such cotton be returned within four months; but in no case shall a claim be allowed on cotton worked up.

5. Sales by grade or type samples must be fulfilled by both parties according to contract.

6. Six iron bands or ropes shall be considered sufficient for each bale. Any excess of this number shall be taken off, or allowed for, at the option of the purchaser. Any bales weighing less than 300 lbs shall be considered unmerchantable.

7. The brokerage shall be fifty cents per bale, one-half of which—twenty-five cents per bale—is to be paid by the purchaser, and added to his bill by the seller.

8. These rules are to be printed on the back of every broker's sale note, and reference made to the same on the face of the contract.

The Mississippi Levees.—This question, which attracted deserved attention during the session of the Louisville Commercial Convention, is again being brought prominently before the public. It is believed, if the levees are rebuilt, that 33,000 square miles, or 20,480,000 acres, would be saved from inundation. This vast tract of land, says the New York World, has been surveyed by two United States Engineers, appointed to the work, and by them subdivided into four districts, as follows: First, the country below Red river, estimated at 7,680,000 acres, belonging to the Louisiana sugar and rice region. Second, the area between the Red and Arkansas rivers, bounded on the west and north by the Highlands of Louisiana and Arkansas, which is estimated at 5,800,000 acres, and is devoted chiefly to cotton raising. Third, the Yazoo basin, containing 4,000,000 acres, bounded by the Yazoo, Tallahatchie and Coldwater rivers, and the bluffs of Mississippi and Tennessee. Fourth, the St. Francis basin, extending from the Mississippi westward to Granby and Bloomfield ridges, and containing over 3,000,000 acres.

The whole of this vast district is annually at the mercy of the Mississippi river, and nearly all cultivation is done at the risk of great loss or total destruction of crops by inundation. Yet it possesses one of the deepest and richest soils in the country, and its products are already vast, more than 750,000 bales of cotton, 25,000,000 pounds of sugar and 25,000,000 gallons of molasses having been raised in the first two districts in one year, and more than 220,000 bales of cotton and 2,600,000 bushels of corn in the third. This evidences the productive character of the land now under tillage, and shows its inherent capabilities when freed from the disadvantages now attending its cultivation.

Of this vast area it is estimated that 7,000,000 of acres in a short time could be prepared and set aside for the cultivation of cotton, leaving ample space for all other productions essential to a self-supporting planting interest. One bale of 400 pounds to the acre is a moderate average estimate of the product of this soil. With the levees up, and secure cultivation assured, the freedman will leave the uplands and seek the alluvium of the Mississippi, finding there not only a better reward for his labor, but a congenial climate and an easy mode of living, in which he will luxuriate. And it is thought that, in the course of ten years, should these lands be reclaimed, half the negro population in America will gravitate naturally there. Even with an inundation or great loss two years out of three, they prefer to plant where they can raise corn, sixty bushels to the acre, than to plant in the hills.

The demand of the world is for cheaper and more abundant cotton. By protection the Yazoo delta alone could be made to add 1,200,000 bales to the American cotton crop, increasing by so much our national wealth. It is believed also that the cane producing regions of the Southwest can, with proper efforts, be made to supply the home demand for sugar and molasses, whereas we find that in 1865 the home crop of cane produced but 5,000 tons, and we imported 345,800, at an expense of not less than $58,160,000—all or most of which can, it is claimed, be saved to the country within a few years.

Louisville Live Stock Market.

SOUTHERN STOCK YARD—SAMUEL BOOKER & CO., PROPRIETORS.

LOUISVILLE, June 3, 1870.

Cattle—Receipts of cattle during the week ending to-day are much heavier than the week previous, and prices a little depressed on all grades except the No. 1 class of butcher stuff, which maintains former quotations. We quote for thin and inferior cattle 3@4c, common to fair 4½@5c, fair to the best grades 5½@6½c, and for the best and No. 1 butcher stuff 6¾@7¼c. Shipping cattle sell, according to quality, at from 6¾@7¼c. None left over unsold.

Hogs—Receipts heavier than last week's receipts, with prices ranging about the same as last quotations on all grades except light, which seem to be a little dull. We quote for thin, smooth hogs 7½@8; 200-lb hogs, half fat, 8¼@8½c; smooth, well-fatted, heavy hogs 8¾@9c. Those at 9c have to be extra. But few in pens unsold.

Sheep—Receipts not so heavy as they were last week. Good sheep sell readily at about last quotations, while those of an inferior quality are hard to sell at any price. We quote for thin, scalawag sheep by the head at from $1@1 75, and for the best quality of butcher sheep by the pound at from 3@4c; extra 4¼@4½c. None in pens unsold.

Mules and Horses—No receipts.

Southern market reports favorable for good, broke stock. There are also some few young stock going South for feeding purposes.

BOURBON HOUSE STOCK-YARD—VISSMAN, DOWNING & CO., PROPRIETORS.

Among the many changes that have occurred in the various departments of trade, the live stock market for the past week ending this evening has not been exempt. The market has evinced an activity that was admired by all parties who were interested in this department of trade, and in most cases drovers were well pleased with their week's operations. Cattle—The supply of this class of stock has only been fair, with an active demand for the best grades. The lower grades were in excess of the demand, and sellers had to make concessions in order to get rid of their stock. The only complaint that we heard came from parties who had invested in this description of stock. All parties who had the high grades were well pleased, as they readily sold all their stock at remunerative prices. Now that the grass-fed stock is being put on the market, it will be seen by the close observer that all classes and qualities will be driven to market, and we will advise drovers that they must be careful in their purchases as to grades and prices. They must not buy old oxen and cows and think that they will bring as much as fancy steers or good choice cows and heifers. We try to particularize in our reports, so that all persons can see the quality that is on the market, and the prices paid. If persons are misled by their own judgment, they cannot blame us, as our quotations are taken from real sales only. We now give grades and prices: Fancy grades consist of half-blood and full-blooded Durhams, that are smooth and have been well fatted, weighing from 1,300 to 1,600 lbs average. This class of stock sells readily at 7¼@7¾c. Choice to extra consist of well-fatted steers, weighing from 900 to 1,200 lbs. This class of stock sells at 6¾@7c. Good choice cows and heifers are in demand, and sell at 6@6½c. Medium grades consist of cows, steers and heifers that are fleshy and make fair beef, sell at 5½@6¼c. Oxen that are fat sell at 5@6c. Common grades, such as are called tailings, sell at $3 00@4 50 per cwt gross. Fresh milch cows are in demand, and sell at $30@40 for common to medium, and good to choice sell at $50@70 per head.

Sheep—The market has been well supplied, and is gradually on the decline. We quote for common and medium grades, with wool off, $2 to $3, and choice to extra $3 50 to $4 per cwt, gross. Lambs are in demand, and sell about as fast as received. A good many have been bought up the past week and shipped East, which has caused an active demand on the part of buyers for home consumption. We quote for common $2 00 to $3, and good to choice $4 00 to 4 50 per head.

Hogs—The market has been well supplied. The market East has not been so good as was expected by shippers, and they lost money in their shipments, and for this reason the market here has not been so active; yet we cannot see that there is any material change in prices. We quote for light $7 to $8, and medium $8 25 to $8 50, and good to choice, weighing over 250 lbs, corn-fed, sell at $8 75 to $9 per cwt, gross.

MEDICAL.

TO PHYSICIANS.

NEW YORK, August 15, 1868.

Allow me to call your attention to my PREPARATION OF COMPOUND EXTRACT BUCHU. The component parts are BUCHU, LONG LEAF, CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.—Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper Berries, by distillation, to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by displacement with spirits obtained from Juniper Berries; very little sugar is used, and a small proportion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

Buchu, as prepared by druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates; the smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopœia, nor is it a Sirup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exist. In this, you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of preparation.

Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that upon inspection it will meet with your approbation,

With a feeling of confidence,

I am, very respectfully,

H. T. HELMBOLD,

Chemist and Druggist of 19 years' experience.

Congressional.

In the Senate, resolutions were adopted for the appointment of a committee of five to consider the whole subject of protecting alluvial lands on the lower Mississippi from overflow by a complete levee system. A bill was reported to extend the provisions of the pre-emption laws to Colorado. The memorial and resolutions of the Israelites of Indianapolis in relation to the massacre in Roumania were referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. The Indian appropriation bill was further considered and several amendments adopted, one of which appropriates $50,000 to collect, locate, and subsist roving bands of Indians on the borders of Texas and Mexico. A joint resolution was introduced by Mr. Williams, increasing the compensation of assistant marshals taking the census 50 per cent., who said he would ask consideration of the resolution to-morrow.

In the House Mr. Boyd Winchester offered a resolution declaring that the House views with profound regret and disapproval the gross violation of the great principle of religious liberty by some people of Roumania in their persecutions and outrages against Israelites, and expressing an earnest hope they may speedily cease, which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. The reconstruction committee was prepared to report the Georgia bill but the House refused to set aside the tax bill, which was further considered. Amendments reducing tax on incomes to three per cent.; exempting $2,000; and limiting house rent to $500, were adopted. Amendment abolishing income tax after 1870 was rejected. Several amendments were adopted, among them provisions prohibiting the publication of income returns; reducing the number of persons entitled to exemption in a social or religious community to five; adding to exemption the losses by floods; allowing assistant assessors to increase the amount of returns he has reason to believe under-stated, and not requiring income returns to include the wages of minor children not received.

LIGHT IN DARKNESS.

The Descent of the Newspaper People into the Mammoth Cave.

A Gay and Festive Party and a High Old Time.

THE RECREATIONS OF JOURNALISM.

Thursday morning, at 7½ o'clock, the members of the Western Associated Press and of the Kentucky Press Association, with their wives and friends, numbering in all eighty-six souls, left the Louisville and Nashville depot in two luxurious and elegant coaches, which the Louisville and Nashville Company, with their characteristic liberality, had placed at the disposal of the excursionists for Mammoth Cave.

ON THE WAY.

A powerful, coal-burning engine was attached to the train, which was heavier than usual, and the party were soon whirling along over the smooth, well-ballasted road, at the rate of thirty miles an hour. Acquaintances were soon formed, and in less than half an hour after starting the excursioners seemed like a party of old friends. Care was thrown to the winds, and the ready jest and answering laugh went round. Pretty villages and towns were passed, and Colesburg, thirty-four miles south of Louisville, was reached, and it was announced that the ascent of Muldrough's Hill would be made, and that the train would pass through the largest tunnel on the road. The scenery along this part of the road is grandly beautiful, and all were eager to view it. Through the courtesy of the conductor, an attache of this paper was permitted to ride upon the engine, from which the best views can be obtained. The ascent, very gradual at first, was begun, but as the train advanced the strain became greater and the engine labored harder. The fireman was kept busy, and every half minute would feed the monster furnace with huge rations of coal. As the sharp curves were rounded the train could be seen in the rear, like a huge serpent clambering up the mountain side. Below were peaceful valleys, smiling with growing grain, and on either side tall cliffs, beautiful in the lining of forest trees and trailing plants, reared their mighty heads. Further on a gloomy cavern is seen, and with a shrill shriek the iron horse dashes into the gloomy tunnel. In an instant the light of heaven is shut out and the train is wrapt in darkness, relieved only by the myriads of sparks which the engine vomited forth. A deafening roar greets the ear and a blinding smoke envelopes the train, and the thought of the terrible consequences if some of the ponderous masonry of the roof should by any accident have fallen upon the track flashes through the brain. A few minutes, which seem like hours, pass, and the train rushes into the sunlight, which seems brighter and more beautiful than before.

A ride of four hours brought the train to Cave City, the point of debarkation. A hasty gathering of parcels and baggage and the excursionists were once more on terra firma. Everybody was in the gayest mood, and, after a hasty lunch, a line of coaches—the genuine stage-coach of early days, kindly furnished by Mr. A. McCoy for the use of the party, were drawn up, and then the work of loading them commenced. The party was larger than had been anticipated, but the capacity of the coaches seemed to be unlimited. The ladies were placed inside, and the gentlemen upon the top, in the boot, and on the driver's seat. A coach, which at first glance seemed unable to accommodate more than a dozen passengers, received 25 by dexterous loading, and still there was room for more. Soon the coaches, which looked like clusters of human beings, were on their way. The editorial room, with its multiplicity of cares and labors, was left behind. The stern, hard lines chiseled by the rigid discipline of journalism relaxed. A new light beamed from the eye, the overstrained bow was unstrung, and the leading journalists of the West were as a party of merry, careless, happy school boys, granted a vacation after a long and tedious session. The jolts and lurches of the coaches were greeted with pretty shrieks of terror by the ladies, and with shouts of laughter by the gentlemen. Three miles from Cave City to the Jehus said. To the eager excursionists it appeared to be ten, and Kentucky miles were anathematized as delusions to travelers. A ride of an hour brought the party to the entrance, where they were hospitably received by Messrs. Young, the courteous proprietors. Abundance of ice water had been prepared, and after refreshing draughts the party entered the cave, which had been brilliantly illuminated in honor of the members of the press.

The many beauties and wonders of the cave were thoroughly examined and the party returned once more to daylight, and the process of packing the coaches was again gone through with and the journey resumed. A ride of 2½ hours brought the excursionists in view of

MAMMOTH CAVE HOTEL.

The announcement was received with the wildest applause. Mr. L. J. Procter, the urbane host, met them at the door and welcomed them in true Kentucky style, and by his attention and courtesy all were made to feel, as many expressed it, "perfectly at home."

The beautiful grounds surrounding the hotel proved too great a temptation, and the excursionists were soon scattered through them. The fun grew fast and furious. All sorts of games were proposed and entered into with a vim. Men, who by the power of their pens control States and communities, indulged in wrestling, leaping and running, with an ardor unequaled even in the happy days of boyhood. Black Republicanism contended with Red-Hot Democracy for the longest jump. Party power was forgotten in the trial of muscle.

THE RACES.

On the the way to the Cave there had been considerable quiet and good-humored banter on the subjects of physical strength and prowess. There were a few in the company who had good reason to be proud of their muscular development. Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial, for instance, who would probably turn the scale at 200; and Holloway, of the Indianapolis Journal, a solid and substantial man of the press. So, when the fun began a wrestling-match was suggested. It was proposed to back Halstead against Holloway for heavy-weights, and McCullagh, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, against some other gentleman of his size and weight. There was some difficulty in arranging this, however, and it was, by common consent, abandoned in favor of a foot-race, to be made around a track about 75 yards long. Pool-selling for this race commenced at once, W. McCullagh acting as auctioneer. The first choice was bought for five dollars by Halstead, who named Holloway as his entry. Holloway in turn entered Halstead as the second choice, bought for $3 00. For the third choice, Smith, of the Gazette, paid $2 00, and entered McCullagh, of the Enquirer. The other entries were: Mr. Peto, an English gentleman, who was one of the guests; Col. Stoddard Johnson, of the Frankfort Yeoman, and Mr. Underwood, of the COURIER-JOURNAL. The racers were immediately put in line, and all the arrangements for a start were perfected. Three ladies were suggested as judges but McCullagh objected on the ground that they would decide, irrespective of pure merit, and in favor of the best looking man. Finally, Mr. Colman, of Missouri, Mr. Beckham, of Dayton, and Mr. Adams, of Kentucky, were chosen, and agreed to act fairly and impartially. At the word "go" the start was made—quite a fair one, except for slight attempts at squeezing each other out of place. Halstead started finely, closely followed by Holloway. "Mack," however, took the lead in the first quarter, and kept it half way round, when he was passed by Halstead, and, as he asserts, elbowed by Holloway to the extent of a "foul." Peto, who is well supplied with legs, made a heroic struggle for the lead, but failed to make it. He seemed determined to get his nose across the line some time ahead of his body, and in trying to do so fell flat on his face and rolled over three times in front of the judges' stand. Next came Holloway, who, when just about to win, made a misstep and came gracelessly down, to the utter bedaubment of his clothing. Colonel Johnson, finding himself sure to be distanced, took a short cut across, and even then failed to get in. Perhaps the most interesting incident of the race was the jump of a large and unfriendly-looking dog right into the middle of the racers just as they were trying to do their level best. Towser barked violently, and there were indications at one time of his disposition to attach himself to somebody's pantaloons. Mr. Underwood came up with good speed in the rear of McCullagh, but not in time to head off Halstead, who was clearly the victor. They came in on the following order: Halstead, McCullagh, Underwood, Johnson, Holloway and Peto were still on the ground. The race was given to Halstead, but McCullagh claimed a foul on the ground that he had been elbowed off the track, and that the dog had made a grab at his breeches, against which he was compelled to defend himself. The judges heard the claim and retired for consultation, but they astonished everybody a few minutes later when they announced their decision to be that the race was not a fair one, but must be run over again, and that they had decided to divide the money among themselves.

It was then announced that Kentucky would name a man against the world. Mr. Peto, of England, promptly accepted the challenge, and Hickman, of the Kentucky Templar, was named. The start was given, and a fierce struggle for supremacy took place, until the home-stretch was reached, when Peto again lost his footing and went to grass heavily, lacerating his trowsers badly, and Hickman came in an easy winner. McCulloch was still eager for the fray, and was pitted against Bickham, of the Dayton Journal. The betting was about even on this race, both entries having many friends. One enthusiastic gentleman offered odds on Bickham, saying that legs were bound to win. The race was closely contested to the close, but the lithe little Mack came in by a neck.

At the close of the races supper was announced and the guests sat down to the first since leaving Louisville, prepared under the supervision of Captain Barney, a well-known hotel and steamboat caterer. With appetites sharpened by the exhilirating ride and sports of the day, the guests did ample justice to the substantial and well-cooked viands set before them. Supper over, a large portion of the party announced their determination of before they retired. The ladies were soon attired in the picturesque costumes of cave visitors, and about forty persons wended their way through the wild, romantic glen leading to the cave. The guides were there in advance, with well-trimmed lamps, with one of which each was provided, and the descent into the grand, gloomy cavern of the world's wonder—Mammoth Cave—was commenced. Owing to the fatigue of the guests and the lateness of the hour (8 o'clock p. m.) only the short route was attempted. The various avenues of this route were threaded by the eager wonder-seekers with reverential steps, as they gazed upon the awful grandeur of its pits, domes and halls fashioned by the hand of the Great Architect of the Universe. The explorations terminated at Star Chamber, the crowning glory of the Cave, and the party returned to the cave deeply impressed with the sublimity of the wonders which they had for the first time gazed upon, and retired to comfortable couches.

Those who remained at the hotel passed away the hours pleasantly in dancing, promenading, playing billiards etc.

THE GRAND EXPLORATION.

In the morning everybody laid aside their plug hats and crinoline for a visit to the cave. The guides reported that, in consequence of the recent heavy rains, the Mystic river had "backed up" to the Dead sea, and was impassable. Many regrets were expressed at this state of affairs, but all resolved to go as far as possible.

With the oldest and most experienced guides in attendance, the party set out.

The Saltpetre Vats, Giant's Coffin, Revelers' Hall, Side-saddle Pit, Richardson's Spring and Bottomless Pit were visited in succession, and each came in for a share of admiration. At the latter place a brilliant correspondent approached dangerously near the edge, and peered intently into the dark abyss, as the lighted flambeau, thrown in by the guide, whirled and flared into the depths. As the torch flickered and flared, and then faded from view in the dark pool at the bottom, he shouted, "It's solved at last." At the urgent solicitation of many he explained that matrimony had been the great problem of his life; that he had become lost in the mazes of the mother-in-law question. The pit was another problem. Why has it been formed? Nothing was formed without a purpose. What was the end for which this vast chasm had been created? As the last spark of the falling torch was extinguished forever he had received a revelation. The purpose was revealed, the problem solved. He would marry at once and put his mother-in-law in the pit. That was the only use to which it could be put.

This explanation was received with shouts of laughter, and the ladies voted to solve the problem of his life by casting him into the pit.

After exploring the cave as far as the river, the party proceeded to the Star chamber where the entire party united in singing "Home, Sweet Home," closing with the doxology to the tune of Old Hundred. Language fails to describe the sublime grandeur of the scene as the many voices swelled the grand chorus of the familiar and solemn hymn.

The party then returned to the hotel and were ushered into the dining-room. During the progress of the meal it was suggested that resolutions appropriate to the occasion should be passed.

VOTE OF THANKS.

The meeting was organized by appointing Hon. Erastus Brooks, Chairman.

The following Committee on Resolutions was then appointed: J. B. McCullagh, Cincinnati Enquirer; M. Cowles, Cleveland Leader; J. Stodard Johnson, Frankfort Yeoman; Norman J. Colman, St. Louis Rural World.

After the excursionists had partaken of the sumptuous repast set before them, Hon. Erastus Brooks, of the New York Express, was introduced, and after returning his thanks for the compliment conferred upon him, spoke substantially as follows:

We are in the heart of old Kentucky, and health, happiness and enjoyment have been ours. We have been in the bowels of the earth, as it were, singing "Home, Sweet Home," that spot to which we are all so much attached; and, in the fullness of our hearts, we have sung praises to God for the happiness vouchsafed unto us. In this enjoyment I have participated, and I desire, as one who has come among you, to say, that I, a citizen of New York, born still further away—in New England—I feel at home to-day. [Applause.]

> "Distinct like the billows,
> But one like the sea,"

are the citizens of our common country. As I came here the other day, I stood looking upon the bordering counties of my State, and, looking out upon a little stream upon the highlands, I saw its diverging branches, one of which flowed to the Gulf of Mexico and the other to the Atlantic ocean, and I thought of the mighty confluence which ultimately took place when all these drops were blended into one stream.

So if we have different opinions I am glad to know that upon an occasion like this, at least, we can forget them, and feel that all nature's difference is all nature's peace. [Applause.]

The following resolutions of thanks were then reported and unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Western Press Association and the Kentucky Press Association having enjoyed a most agreeable excursion to the Mammoth Cave, desire to express their appreciation of the same, therefore,

Resolved, That the thanks of the joint party are hereby tendered to the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, for their courtesy in furnishing transportation to and from Cave City; to Mr. A. McCoy, for the use of his stages in taking us to the Cave; to Messrs. Thos. Long & Bro., for taking us to Glasgow Junction; to S. B. Young and B. R. Young, Jr., for their entertainment at the Indian Cave; to L. J. Procter & Son, proprietors of the hotel at Indian Cave, and Maj. Geo. M. Procter, proprietor of Diamond Cave and Glasgow Junction Hotel, for their cordial reception and entertainment at their hotel, and the kind attention shown to us during our stay.

"MACK!"

Mr. J. B. McCullagh, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, then rose and said that he felt it his duty as Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, to state that they were incomplete without thanks for the presence of the ladies, the scintillations of whose bright eyes alone enabled him to tread with safety the serpentine and ubiquitous route of "Fat Man's Misery," and to avoid the unknown dangers of that cavern to which is consigned a prospective "Mother-in-law."

He then charged the non-appearance of such a resolution to the influence of Mr. Norman J. Colmar, of the St. Louis Rural World.

MR. COLMAN'S RESPONSE

was as follows:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: I can truly say I am too full for utterance. [Laughter.] And I should not reply at all had I not been called upon by the gentleman who charges me with this ungenerous conduct. All I can say is that I know that this intelligent crowd of ladies and gentlemen well knew that I am too good-looking [laughter] a man not to have a higher appreciation of the fair sex. I was surprised that my trustful friend, "Mack," whose writings I have read so much, and in whose descriptions I have placed such implicit confidence. Why, I am astonished at the degeneracy of the press. [Laughter.]

I now call upon my friend Col. Johnson to establish the fact that this is a complete afterthought; that the gentleman from the Enquirer never thought of the ladies in the committee-room. [Renewed laughter.] And now he hopes to make an impression upon the ladies. That, sir, is a piece of strategy to secure one of the fairest daughters of Kentucky to transplant in Cincinnati. [Applause.] I warn them all and tell them not to trust him. He talks much about his salvation from the caverns of the cave by the beaming bright eyes, and his willingness to remain in the "bottomless pit," but the ladies now have to take that from Mack.

And now, as President of the Missouri Press Association, I invite you all to our next meeting at St. Joseph. [Applause.]

To this Colonel Johnson responded in a few pleasant remarks, stating that the proceedings of the committee were made secret by courtesy, and, therefore, he could not reply to the inquiries of Mr. Coleman, unless the ladies demanded the disclosure.

An announcement from Mr. Haldeman that carriages were waiting to carry the party to put everybody on the qui vive, and soon all were in motion again. On reaching the cave they were kindly shown through by Mr. L. J. Procter, the proprietor, whose untiring energy and close attention made the descent pleasant to the large crowd who had already tramped through the labyrinths of the Mammoth Cave.

A number of the party were too much fatigued to explore further than the main avenue of this cave, and thereby failed to see many of its beauties. Some of the domes, arches, &c., were really grand. The most beautiful hall in the cave, which is one of magnificent proportions, with arched walls and dome frescoed with stalactites, was honored with the title of "The Editorial Room."

Spiritual comfort in the way of champagne was then dispensed by the obliging host, after which the party were conveyed to the hotel at Glasgow Junction. The tedium of the journey was relieved by the general good humor of the party revivified with Mack's jokes, and his protestations of eternal fidelity to one "bright particular star." At the a splendid supper was awaiting them, and here again they were received by Major George M. Procter with that generous hospitality which made the trip so pleasant. At 6:30 p. m. the entire party were ensconced in the elegant special coaches furnished by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, and were whirling rapidly homeward. They arrived safely in Louisville at 10:20 p. m., with the unanimous opinion that the excursion was an oasis in the desert of life.

JOHN J. SULLIVAN.

The Revivalist, Good Templar, Journalist and Politician in Trouble Again.

John J. Sullivan has gone to the Work-house. The pseudo journalist, the bellowing revivalist, the spurious good templar, the five-cent politician and the unmitigated scoundrel is out of the way for a time at least, and the vitals of the community have ceased to be knawed at by his stained and slimy tushes. This uncouth fellow has been going the rounds for a long time, imposing on clerks of country hotels and verdant railroad conductors to no inconsiderable extent on the strength of his connection with the COURIER-JOURNAL and other newspapers. It was the exquisite pleasure of the writer to do up this scoundrel in print once before, when a full history of his exploits was published, winding up with his presentation to the City Court on the charge of being "a common cheat." Since that time he, like his co-laborer and brother-in-the-faith, D. Morgan White, has made himself exceedingly scarce in these parts, appearing only about election times and fleecing unsophisticated candidates out of various moneys, and more dinks, in consideration of his "influence."

While we are astonished at the verdancy of those who have allowed themselves to be inveigled by this fellow and his kind, we feel bound to improve this occasion to give a bit of caution to others of like faith in the assertions of persons who travel on their real or imaginary connection with some real or imaginary newspaper.

Let us say once for all to these easily-deceived persons that any man who tries to get for nothing what other people pay for, on the assumption of a newspaper position, is presumptively a dead beat. Either his connection with the newspaper which he represents is too slight to enable him to be of any real influence, or else, as is generally the case, it is wholly imaginary.

Editors and reporters of good standing now-a-days pay their bills like other gentlemen, and are not in the habit of boasting on the street-corners and in other public places of their newspaper position. Honest people may well beware of and shun such noisy and blatant characters. Ten to one they are sheer imposters. The day of journalistic quackery and charlatanism is well nigh gone.

We confess that with the repeated warnings given to the public by the press in regard to these swindling imposters, we have very little sympathy with any one who falls a victim to their transparent frauds.

Christian Union Mission.

An association with the above name has lately been organized in this city under the direction of the Rev. J. M. Sadd, City Missionary.

The basis of this organization is a Sabbath-school that was commenced over three years ago in the public-school building on Market street, near Wenzel. As the title indicates, the school is conducted on the union plan, having among its teachers and officers representatives from nearly all the Protestant denominations in the city.

The school was held in the public-school building nearly eighteen months, when, owing to a change which was made in the room occupied, it was compelled to move, and accepted the kind offer of the trustees of the Presbyterian church on Hancock street of the use of the basement of that church, where the school is now held.

It has on its roll over three hundred scholars and about forty teachers and officers. The school has been continued for more than three years with great favor and success, but has suffered the whole time for want of a suitable place for holding its meetings. It is the wish of the mission to erect a building that can be used for holding Sabbath and industrial schools, and that can also be used for general mission work. It has been for some time the desire of the Sabbath School to erect such a building, but it was found necessary for the officers and teachers to form themselves into an association, as, according to the laws of Kentucky, they had no right to hold property in their own name.

It is estimated that at least twenty-three thousand children in this city are without religious instruction; the work of the mission is among this class; it is therefore to be hoped that the good people of every name, and those who, though not professed Christians, have been blessed with generous hearts, will assist this worthy undertaking. The principal features in the article of agreement are as follows:

The object of the association is to establish and conduct Sabbath and industrial schools for the benefit of neglected children and youth and for general mission and mission school work. They will purchase or lease ground and erect suitable buildings for the purpose, and will hold the property in trust for that purpose. Sabbath school officers and teachers and missionaries may become members of the association. The business and property of the association will be under the care of ten managers, elected annually, representing the Evangelical churches, to be chosen from among the teachers and officers of the school and the city missionary.

There will be no dissolution of this association, and no sale or lease of any property in any way except by a vote of three-fourths of the members of the association at a special meeting called for that purpose, after public notice has been given. In the event of a sale being ordered in this way, at any time, the Board of Managers will have power to make the conveyance.

The Board of Managers may elect a President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, and such other officers as may be necessary. The articles of agreement have been duly executed and recorded in the County Clerk's office, as required by law. The managers for the present year are: Rev. J. M. Sadd, City Missionary; Phil. Michaels, of the Lutheran Church; J. S. Maddox and J. D. Brodie, Baptist; Wm. B. Rogers and E. L. Lee, Episcopal; George E. Foskett and John W. Drummond, Methodist, and F. E. Williams and I. W. Gardner, of the Presbyterian Church.

These gentlemen or any one of them will be glad to give any further information in regard to their commendable enterprise.

The occurrence caused an immense excitement, and only for the prompt arrest of Ridge and one of the negroes the affair might have become more serious.

AMUSEMENTS.

Floral Queen.

The repetition of the Floral Queen by Prof. Lurton's pupils, at Masonic Temple, on Tuesday evening next, will be hailed with delight by the numerous friends of that gentleman and his pupils, and by all lovers of charming juvenile music and fairy scenes. Many who were prevented from being present on the occasion of its first representation, on account of the inclement weather, will be rejoiced to learn that it is to be repeated, and will avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing the beautiful little girls and hearing them sing. The gentlemen who have called for the repetition of this entertainment, have expressed the wish of a large class of the citizens of Louisville, as will be evidenced, no doubt, on Tuesday evening next, by the large attendance at Masonic Temple. The gentlemen and ladies who volunteered their assistance on the former occasion will aid in this, adding much to the interest of the occasion and greatly enhancing the enjoyment of the audience.

Weisiger Hall.

The closing exercises of Mrs. Platt's school took place at Weisiger Hall last night, and the building was filled with attentive listeners. The exercises opened with a prayer by Rev. Dr. Platt, of Calvary Church, after which followed the awarding of distinctions to the young ladies, which was done in an elegant manner. Three compositions were read: "The Mystic Gateways," by Miss Cora Sutcliffe; "How we Talk," by Miss Libbie Spotts; and "Trifles," by Miss Lena Jacob; all of which were rendered in a graceful and happy manner. "The Coronation" was participated in by all the young ladies of the school, and included the "Coronation Address," by Miss Lena Jacob. The exercises speak well for the progress of the young ladies who are fortunate enough to be scholars under Mrs. Platt.

Glover Skating Rink.

There will be skating at Glover Hall this evening. We are glad to notice a revival of the interest in this healthful and delightful exercise. The large hall is well ventilated and airy, and the crowd of flying skaters keep a delicious breeze stirring all the while. There is always fine music on hand.

RETURN OF THE FENIANS.

How Far the Louisville Boys Got and What they Did—One of their Number Supposed to have been Murdered at Rome, New York.

The company of Fenians which went to the seat of war from Louisville returned home yesterday. It was composed of about fifty men, under command of Captain O'Brian, with Mike Shelley as First Lieutenant. They arrived in Rome, New York, last Friday, and lay encamped in an old barn there, awaiting orders, until Wednesday, when they received transportation and orders to return home. They are very much dissatisfied with the way the affair was managed, and say that the leaders cannot complain of a want of men. Every station they passed, after leaving Buffalo, was crowded with troops, all armed and mustered, and the finest-looking soldiers they ever saw. Irish troops were as thick as bees all along the border, and, if they had had a leader, they would have been in Montreal instead of at home last night.

The company which left here returned with all but one of its men. That was John Manly, one of the best and bravest of them. He was lost at Rome, and the probabilities are that he was murdered and robbed there. On Saturday, the next morning after they arrived, he left the camp to be gone but an hour or so, and has not since been heard from. His knapsack was found cut open and rifled. After the men had got on the train to return, they heard a report that a strange man had been found murdered in the outskirts of the town. This they have every reason to believe is their lost comrade. Mr. John Shelley has telegraphed to Rome for information in regard to the matter. Manly was well known in the city here, was a prompt and reliable man, and bore a good reputation.

MURDER.

Death of Mike Lang, who was Shot by a Cyprian About Two Weeks Ago.

Mike Lang, the man who was shot by Josephine Lawrence, in a saloon at the corner of Preston and Lafayette streets, on the night of the 19th of May, died from the effects of the wound last night about 11 o'clock. The woman, who had been out on bail, was arrested soon after the death and placed in jail.

The facts of this unfortunate tragedy are perhaps remembered. The woman Lawrence, who is the keeper of a house of ill fame at No. 104 Lafayette street, attended a picnic on the day of the shooting, and was badly abused and beaten by her lover, Terry Ridge. They both were drinking to some extent. After the difficulty between them they returned to the city. The woman went to her house and again drank liquor. Shortly after 1 o'clock she took a Colt's navy pistol and left the house, saying that she would kill Terry Ridge before she slept. She proceeded to the Spot saloon, entered, and found Ridge with one or two others standing at the bar. Without a word, she leveled the pistol and fired at Ridge. The bullet, however, missed its mark and took effect in the left breast of Mike Lang, who was standing near by, inflicting the wound which has proved fatal. Lang was taken to his boarding-house, on Market street, between Sixth and Seventh, where he has been lying at the point of death ever since, and has suffered the most intense agonies.

He was by profession a hanger of ornamental fly-paper, and lived in Peru, Indiana. His wife and three children were sent for, and have been at his beside during his long suffering.

The murderess will be presented to the City Court this morning.

The Last Sale of Oil Paintings.

This morning at 10, and this afternoon at 3 o'clock, will be the last opportunity to purchase any of those valuable oil paintings at Messrs. C. C. Spencer & Co.'s, when every endeavor will be made to close out the collection. 'Tis a little singular that our citizens have hitherto made a lively rush for cheap and trashy pictures, and that now a good collection is brought here at great risk and expense, and sold at a dreadful sacrifice to the artists, they have not the wit to take advantage of it.

At Auction.

At 4 o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon, we sell a cottage house, located on Main street, between Clay and Shelby, and at 6 o'clock we sell another cottage, located on Madison street, between Preston and Jackson. Morris, Southwick & Co., auctioneers.

The Doctors.

In conversation with one of our leading physicians, a few days since, we were informed by him that lately his attention had been frequently called to the happy effects among his patients of Wintersmith's Extract Buchu and Pareira Brava; that it was greatly superior to any diuretic he had ever known, and that he must confess he had not been able to prescribe anything that had as much merit.

SPURIOUS NOBILITY.

A Son of the Blue-grass Region Comes to Grief in the Queen City.

Somebody representing himself as a scion of a noble house in the Blue-grass Region has been imposing on the proprietor and guests of a Cincinnati hotel, and ended up by being picked up. The following is the account which the Cincinnati Enquirer gives of him:

"A young man professing to belong to one of the first families of the lovely Blue Grass Region of Kentucky, who has been doing the Broadway Hotel and the guests thereof extensively, has lately come to particular grief. When the young gentleman made his advent at this popular place of entertainment, some weeks ago, an adolescent youth of, perhaps, eighteen years, with downy beard upon his chin, invisible except to the most powerful microscope, he represented himself to have been sired in one of those country villages in the interior of our neighboring commonwealth, which reminds the rural tourist of the hamlet so charmingly described by Goldsmith in one of his most celebrated poems.

"Here the itinerant youth stated his sire resided, living in luxurious independence of sublunary cares, looking, as he sat under his own vine and fig tree, out upon his broad and fertile acres, literally covered with flocks of sheep and goats, and oxen, kine and asses more than ever were possessed by Abraham, Isaac, or any other oriental patriarch. From this paternal paradise the son had wandered, and had paid the Broadway Hotel the high compliment of selecting it for his residence while the city should be honored with his presence.

"The hotel register bears, in a prominent place upon one of its spotless pages the name of W. P. Wherrett in a fine running hand, so legible that he may run who reads it. Fair, fair, with golden hair, was Mr. Wherrett, albeit his name was not euphonious, and his features were delicately chiseled after the manner in which, as the sequel showed, he intended to chisel the hotel. But a close acquaintance revealed the fact that his education had been neglected, that this twig of a majestic tree had not been bent in the right direction, consequently his company was not sought by the literary and refined portion of the guests of the hotel. He therefore contented himself with the society of the colored attaches of the establishment, and otherwise showed his good breeding by shaking his hyacinthine locks contemptuously at the delicate viands daily laid before him, for which he never condescended to make any financial return. When occasionally reminded in a polite manner by the proprietors of the hotel that it would be no more than fair to make an advance now and then in return for the attention he was receiving, he replied loftily that his father who had houses and lands as aforesaid would foot the bills, and in due time make everything supremely lovely.

"So things went on week after week in this unremunerative manner. A letter written to the address which the prodigal indicated obtained the response that the sire would pay the bills of the son; but with the promise was coupled a request that the boy should not know that any letter of inquiry had been written. In the meantime various articles of clothing and jewelry belonging to the boarders disappeared as secretly and mysteriously as if an enchanter had spirited them away with his wand. Suspicion gradually fell upon the pretended Kentuckian, whose vast paternal estates in cloudland were regarded by the envious as apocryphal, and whose dissatisfaction with his hash had excited the indignation of those who looked upon the table, which fairly groaned with all the luxuries of the season, as equaled by the table d'hote of few hotels and excelled by none.

"To abbreviate a story which is in danger of becoming too longitudinous, the trunk of Wherrett was examined during his absence, and the impostor arrested by the police last Saturday, and lodged in the Hammond-street station-house. Most of the property, amounting in the aggregate value to over two hundred dollars, has been found at the places of business of his uncles in different parts of the city, and the offender will be held to answer this morning at the Temple of Justice, at whose altar officiates the High Priest Straub."

NEW ALBANY.

NEW ALBANY, June 4.

Justice A. W. Munroe has returned from an extensive tour through Texas.

Mr. Hurrie, Deputy County Treasurer, goes to Indianapolis to-day to effect a settlement with the State Treasurer.

The theatrical troupe at Music Hall have met with poor success the present week. Slim audiences every night.

Betsey Taylor, aged sixty-eight, widow of Wilson Taylor, an old pioneer citizen, died at one o'clock Thursday in Greenville, in this county.

The New Albany and Chicago depot was crowded yesterday morning with candidates and their friends, en route for the picnic at Twelve Mile Switch.

Officer Joel D. Smith on yesterday afternoon arrested a chap hailing from Cincinnati for selling bogus lottery tickets. He was taken before the Mayor and fined $2, with costs.

The Ledger of last evening declines to publish a communication from S. R. Wolf, in answer to its leader which appeared in Thursday evening's issue, because it is disrespectful to the editors.

The New Albany rolling mills are making extensive improvements to their machinery and grounds. Workmen are busily engaged in inclosing the site of the mills with a high fence, to prevent the young thieves from carrying off the scraps of old iron.

Some parties are engaged in negotiating for a citizens' ticket. It is stated that one-half of the candidates to be placed on it will be Republican and the other half Democratic, John F. Leyden's name to be put up for County Clerk. One of the County Commissioners is to be a Republican, the Sheriff and Auditor to be Republican, and the Treasurer, Recorder, and County Clerk are to be Democrats.

The New Albany and St. Louis Air Line Railway Company, at some of the street crossings below Lower Fourth street, failed to keep the gutters open. The consequence is, some of the lots were flooded with water of the last heavy rains, and the owners are fearful that if left standing will become stagnant and breed a pestilence in their vicinity. The proper authorities should look after it.

The Democratic candidates for the different offices start to-day to canvass the county. J. O. Green, James Rice, Chris. Fox, George E. Sackett, Seth Brown and Jont Peters are announced to speak as follows: Marysville, to-day at 4 p. m. School-house No. 7, near Scottsville, Monday, June 6th, 3:30 p. m.; Greenville, same day, 7 p. m.; Georgetown, Tuesday, June 7th, 3 p. m.; Edwardsville, do, 7 p. m., and at Franklin Township picnic, Wednesday, June 8th, 2 o'clock p. m. All the candidates are invited to be present, and especially candidates for Sheriff.

"The following is the assessment for Revenue for 1870, made by the City Assessor, within the corporate limits of the city:

Value of lots	$2,264,862
Value of improvements	2,205,715
Value of corporation stocks	1,016,637
Value of personal property	2,305,630
Total valuation	$7,792,844

The assessment for 1869 was $6,856,388, showing an increase in valuation for 1870 of $936,456. The assessment valuation is about one-half the actual valuation."

The Ledger of last evening contains the following items: Wm. Galbreath and family, of this city, sailed from New York for Europe, on the steamship Batavia, on Saturday last. Judge Lafollette left, on yesterday morning's train, to deliver an address before the pupils of Bloss School, in Orleans, Indiana. There will be a picnic at Ripperdan's Grove, near Valley City, Harrison county, on July 4th. Distinguished speakers will be present. The Floyd and Clarke County Horticultural Society will hold an exhibition of fruits, flowers and vegetables at the Court-house to-day, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 12 m. The class-leaders of Wesley Chapel have formed themselves into a society for the purpose of improving in the manner of leading classes. At a meeting of the Floyd County Bible Society, yesterday morning, in the Second Presbyterian church, Rev. Vanatti, agent of the American Bible Society, stated that he had been canvassing the city for three weeks past, and in that time he had visited about two thousand families, and found fifty of them destitute of the Bible. In the same time he had received contributions to the amount of $500. The Floyd County Bible Society will hold another meeting on Sunday night, June 19.

At the candidates' picnic on Thursday, near Mooresville, a little knock-down occurred, which was the theme of conversation on the streets yesterday. It seems that Cynthia Fountain, the owner of the St. Nicholas saloon, on Pearl street, in this city, took umbrage at George E. Sackett, the present Deputy County Auditor and candidate for Auditor, because Mr. Sackett did not see fit to be a frequenter of his saloon. Fountain took occasion to call Sackett a liar. Sackett replied that no gentleman would use such language which enraged Fountain, who immediately stripped his coat and commenced striking at Sackett, who kept backing out, trying to avoid the difficulty, but seeing this impossible, he let drive at Fountain, who immediately went to the grass, not of his own will, however, but by the strength of Sackett's right arm, and there he lay for a few minutes almost senseless. At this Richard Humphrey, who keeps the billiard-room for Fountain, stepped up and dealt Sackett a blow, knocking him down. Here the friends of the parties interfered and put an end to the fuss. It is needless for us to say that Mr. Sackett is a young man who is noted in our community for his industry, sobriety, and general good character. We have given a plain statement of the facts in the case, as given to us by responsible parties, and we leave the public to judge if Mr. Sackett has in any respect decreased that public regard for him.

JEFFERSONVILLE.

JEFFERSONVILLE, June 4.

The gross passenger receipts of the "Jeff." road during April were $33,907.

There was but one case in the Police Court yesterday, and it was dismissed.

The candidates of Clark county will be in attendance at the picnic near Sellersburg to-day.

Candidates are moving around with unusual zeal as the day of the primary election approaches.

From the first of March to the first of May the Jeffersonville Gas Company manufactured 585,000 cubic feet of gas.

The internal revenue assessment in Clark county for the month of May as returned by Jas. B. Houston, A. A. I. R., is $2,508 04.

There was a large attendance again at the festival last evening. To-night is the last evening. There will be additional attraction. Let the crowd be increased.

Money is plentiful in Jeffersonville at the present time. It is offering at ten per cent., whereas a year ago it was almost impossible to secure a loan at 12 per cent. and interest paid in advance.

The ship-building interests of Jeffersonville will be considered good when it is known that at least ten boats are in course of construction in our yards, or that the preliminaries for their construction is in progress.

H. H. Reynolds, Superintendent of the Jeffersonville and Louisville Ferry Company, has obtained a pleasant and remunerative clerkship in the Mayberry Bank, in San Francisco, California, and he will locate there permanently.

Ex-Mayor Poindexter, Deputy United States Marshal, has commenced taking the census. He is at present engaged at work in the First ward. All information of a private nature, which Mr. Poindexter is compelled to gather in the capacity of a census-taker, he is under oath not to divulge.

There is a little rebellion in the colored wing of the Republican party in Jeffersonville. It seems that some evil spirit has presided over their councils lately, and on Thursday night they met in the colored Baptist church with the avowed intention of discarding Thomas Carter (colored) and Joseph T. Place (white), the former President of the Colored Republican Club, and the latter general scribe, adviser and manager of the colored interest. At the meeting above referred to they met with the determination of wiping them both out. So they peremptorily turned Carter out of the chair, and resolved that they would discard Place's service hereafter, and run the machine for themselves. Carter afterward arrived, and a pretty row there was, too. Right in the church, underneath the droppings of sanctuary, there was damning and cursing, and all but a fight. Unluckily for Place he was absent at the time, or he might have taught the brethren better.

LOUISVILLE BRIDGE COMPANY,
LOUISVILLE, KY., Dec. 10, 1869.
TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—The Louisville Bridge Company has not yet been able to remove the cribs which were placed in the Indiana channel for the purpose of erecting the bridge over the Ohio River.
Soundings taken December 10, at 2 P. M., when the water-marks in the canal showed 9 feet 10 inches, give the following results:
The first crib next to the pier on the south side of the channel was 6 feet under water. This crib is 53½ feet from the pier.
From this crib to the second there is a clear channel of 100 feet. Over the second crib there was 5 feet of water.
The third crib on Rubble's Rock, 42¼ feet from the second and 22 feet to the north of the middle of the channel span, was 5½ feet under water.
The fourth crib, 42¼ feet from the third, was 6 feet under water.
The fifth crib, 42¼ feet from the fourth and 38 feet from pier on the north side of the channel, was 4 feet under water.
The cribs are 14 feet wide. These obstructions will be removed as soon as practicable, and notice given thereof.
All obstructions have been removed from the middle channel.
The clear space under the bridge, above low-water mark, is 96 feet in the middle chute and 86 feet in the Indiana chute. W. B. HAMILTON,
